Senators Divided On Censure Action

M'Carthy's Ailing Arm Improved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP) — The condition of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, whose ailing arm is holding up Senate consideration of a move to censure him, was reported "a little improved" today.

There still was no definite word from Bethesda Naval Hospital, however, how soon the Wisconsin Republican will be well enough to leave the hospital.

The Senate called an 11-day halt in the censure debate yesterday on the basis of a medical report saying McCarthy's elbow injury had resulted in "traumatic bursitis" and treatment would keep him hospitalized until Nov. 29.

Senators split sharply on whether there now will be any final action on the censure move at the now-interrupted special session of the Senate, which must end Dec. 24.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said there is "no doubt in my mind that the issue will be resolved" before the Christmas Eve deadline.

Voice Disagreement

But Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), one of the two senators who voted in favor of shortening the current recess, voiced disagreement in a separate interview.

"I doubt very seriously that we will ever be able to get the censure resolution to a vote," Fulbright said. "We certainly will not be able to do it without the full cooperation of the Republican leadership."

Fulbright is one of the three senators who originated the move to censure McCarthy on grounds of contempt toward a Senate subcommittee and "repeated abuse" of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker before McCarthy's subcommittee.

One of the various rumors floating around was that McCarthy is critically ill but a Naval hospital spokesman denied that.

"The senator is not critically ill," he said, "but it is not known definitely how long he will be in the hospital."

Seems To Be Improved

The spokesman added he did not mean to give the impression McCarthy would be hospitalized beyond the Nov. 29 date.

This spokesman said McCarthy, whose elbow reportedly was hurt when a well-wisher banged it against a table, "seems to be a little improved" and spent a restful night.

Some backers of the censure move contended the senator's friends were taking advantage of McCarthy's hospitalization to delay a showdown.

Sen. Morse (Ind-Ore) said the McCarthy supporters "overplayed their hand" yesterday when they blocked a proposal that the Senate agree on the spot to take a final vote before the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress ends.

Mendes-France Blasts Soviet Security Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendes-France today denounced as "childish, unrealistic and even dangerous" Russia's proposal for a 25-nation European security conference Nov. 29.

Foreshadowing formal French rejection of the Russian bid, Mendes-France said the West must always be ready for East-West negotiations but "not through improvised and spectacular conferences intended principally for propaganda."

The French leader, approaching the end of far-ranging talks with top American officials, blasted Russia's newest cold war move during a luncheon address at the National Press Club.

He firmly pledged that as "a point of honor" France would quickly approve German rearmament agreements regardless of any new concessions Russia might offer to delay ratification.

Speaking deliberately in English to an applauding audience, he said:

"Ratification of the Paris agreements is not a matter of negotiation with the East; it cannot be regarded by the East as a trading point.

"But we do not see how ratification could be an obstacle to the easing of East-West tensions, if everyone genuinely wants that easing."

In his prepared address, Mendes-France labeled Russia's note proposing the East-West conference as "disappointing." But in answering reporters questions after his speech he went further.

"It would be childish, unrealistic and even dangerous," he said, "to accept such proposals as the one to go to Moscow or even Paris Nov. 29 and improvise solutions for problems so difficult that for 11 years no solution to them could be found."

France and the West, he continued will always stand "open minded," ready to seize on any "reasonable proposal" offered by Russia and the Communist bloc.

Two Armed Men Rob Bank In Ky.

SANDY HOOK, Ky., Nov. 19 (AP)—Two masked men armed with revolvers robbed the People's Bank in this Elliott County seat of an estimated $20,000 to $25,000 today.

Cashier R. W. Thompson and his wife, a teller at the bank, were alone when the bandits entered and were locked in the vault.

The holdup was not discovered for about an hour, when passersby heard Thompson yelling and investigated. The Thompsons were freed unharmed.

Charge Withdrawn

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Subversive Activities Control Board, which branded the International Workers Order as a Communist front, today withdrew the designation because the organization no longer exists.

Woman In Home Shot By Hunter

FELCH, Mich., Nov. 19 (AP)—No one, it seems, is safe during the deer hunting season—not even washing dishes in your own kitchen.

That's what Mrs. Lillian Mattson, 37, of Felch was doing when a .22 calibre bullet—presumably from a hunter's rifle—crashed through her kitchen window and struck her in the stomach.

The bullet had lost most of its force and caused only a slight wound.

Felch is a village in Michigan's North Woods.

PARADISE, N.S., Nov. 19 (AP)—Dr. Otto Strasser said today he hopes to return soon to Germany, whence he fled 13 years ago from Adolf Hitler.

False Front Now Fine Art Albert Carlo Shows N. Y.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Albert Carlo knows that the false front is a fine art in New York City and he's making the most of it.

Carlo is a onetime Greenwich Village lad who grew up with burning ambitions.

He got himself a job as a fry cook in a restaurant. This seemed to satisfy part of his yearnings, but not all.

Then he took to painting canvas banners for sideshow freaks. Finally he graduated to portrait painting—though with other subjects—with some degree of success. He also became a successful night club decorator.

But finally, at 44, he has reached what he considers the pinaccle of success—he's a gate-crasher, deluxe.

Carlo, sporting a handsome goatte, elegant clothes and a beautiful woman on each arm, showed up Wednesday night for the premiere of a film in a $36,000 Rolls-Royce. The car, of course, was borrowed.

So was his identification—Count Henri Louis Bonaparte, descendant of the emperor—and his dignity, a pillow stuffed underneath his waistfront.

The great and small bowed and scraped all over the place. The "count" was interviewed over radio and TV from the lobby, big-shots pressed forward to meet him and some newspapers carried his picture.

He had created a similar stir earlier at another premiere which he attended as the Maharaja of Barata.

He admitted his true identity when some newsmen pinned him down.

Carlo feels he's at his best as the maharaja.

"I love the way people defer to a maharaja. . . .

Field Freed, Whisked Away To Join Wife

Hermann Was Released 3 Weeks Ago After Five Years In Prison

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 19 (AP)—Hermann Field reached the free world today after five years in a Communist prison in Poland and immediately disappeared once more from view.

With the aid of Swiss and U.S. officials he was whisked away to an undisclosed place for a long-awaited reunion with his wife, Katy, and sister, Dr. Elsie Field of Urbana, Ill.

Police here said Field, a former Cleveland, Ohio, architect, had "gone into hiding in a Zurich hotel" with his family and they were under strict instructions not to say which one.

Released 3 Weeks Ago

Hermann was released from prison three weeks ago. He had been spending some time in a Warsaw sanitarium. His brother, Noel, and sister-in-law, Herta, released this week by the Hungarians, were in Budapest recuperating. Hermann disappeared while searching for Noel and Herta.

But the atmosphere of mystery and hush-hush that has surrounded the case of the Field family since they dropped from sight persisted even in free Switzerland.

In Washington Henry Suydam, the U.S. State Department press officer, denied the department was in any way involved in difficulties here by newsmen in their attempts to reach Field.

But an official of the U.S. consulate here drove the Field family to their undisclosed destination and did some maneuvering in his car to throw newsmen off the trail.

Police and airport officials kept all newsmen and photographers from close contact with Field and one Swiss photographer was manhandled while trying to get a close-up.

Somewhere In Switzerland

Fields British-born wife, Katy, told newsmen in London recently she and her husband would spend several weeks somewhere in Switzerland to enable him to recuperate from his ordeal, but she gave no indication where they intended to go.

Officials here believe Noel, a prewar State Department employe, and his wife may also come to Switzerland.

Mrs. Field and Hermann's sister, arrived here from London last night—also surrounded by official security measures. They were both at the airport to meet Field today.

Paul Ruegg, chief supervising official at the airport, said the unusual security precautions were taken on instructions from the Swiss Foreign Office which—Ruegg said—had received a specific request from U. S. Ambassador Dr. Frances E. Willis to keep newsmen away from Field.

Senate Delays Vote On Harlan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—A Senate vote on John Marshall Harlan's nomination to be a Supreme Court justice was postponed until January today after Democrats asked for more time to study his qualifications.

Harlan, 55, is now a judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for New York, Connecticut and Vermont. President Eisenhower named him to the Supreme Court Nov. 8, but the Senate must confirm the nomination.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), who said he was speaking for at least half a dozen Democratic senators, objected to immediate consideration of Harlan's appointment when it came up before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) protested against the delay, but Chairman Langer (R-ND) ruled that the nomination would have to go over to the next session of Congress, which convenes Jan. 5.

Another member of the subcommittee, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), commented that Republicans and Democrats have an agreement that no controversial nominations will be considered during the special Senate session called to consider censuring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

U. S. Is Establishing Radar Chain

Seven Stations Ready In Canada, At Arctic Circle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The United States already has established the first seven of an eventual chain of radar warning stations it will build and pay for across Canada above the Arctic Circle.

This came to light today in connection with a careful, diplomatically worded, joint announcement by Ottawa and Washington. The announcement said the two countries had decided the "Distant Early Warning" line should be built—a 3,000-mile long string of radar "eyes" intended to give a six-hour warning to American cities if Soviet bombers head in over the polar cap.

U.S. Is Responsible

It also said it has been agreed that, while both Canada and the United States will participate in the project, responsibility for construction will be vested in the United States.

Reporters asked a Pentagon official if this meant the United States would bear the cost. He said "I think we'll foot the bill."

Unofficial estimates of building the Dew line in the remote, uninhabited and frozen arctic have ranged from two hundred million to one billion dollars.

The first of the radar stations was built in the area of Barter Island, off the Arctic sea coast of Alaska, more than a year ago. The Western Electric Co., which produced and installed equipment for that station, said in September 1953 that the "initial section" of Dew line was to be functioning within a year.

The Defense Department thereafter maintained tight silence about progress until today when an official, discussing with reporters the formal announcement, disclosed that seven such stations, presumably all located along the northern perimeter of Alaska, are in operation.

Linked To Filter Centers

Although still classed as experimental, these stations are linked to the radar warning filter centers of Alaska and the United States.

Construction is made difficult and expensive by frozen subsoil, ice, snow, temperatures falling far below zero, gales and, above all, the absence of people to do the work.

Equipment to start the Canadian section of the line will be shipped in next July, when ice moves out of the MacKenzie and away from the ship lane around northern Alaska. Shipments can start even earlier over the warmer Hudson Bay route, the official said.

He emphasized a "feeling of urgency" in the effort to get the line into operation.

Some of the arctic radar stations will operate automatically, requiring only occasional visits by servicing personnel. Others will be manned.

Texan Held In Kidnaping

MOUNT VERNON, Mo., Nov. 19 (AP) — A 48-year-old Texan accused of kidnaping his 12-year-old niece persisted tonight in denying any knowledge of her fate. But police said they have found clues indicating that she has been slain.

Thurman Priest, an auditor from Grand Prairie, Tex., is being held here on charges of abducting Jeannette Earnest, daughter of Mrs. Nadine Earnest of Fort Worth.

Priest turned up at a Mount Vernon tourist court Wednesday night, mumbling incoherently. Sheriff Vernon Smith said some of Jeannette's school books were found in his car.

In kidnaping charges filed in Fort Worth, Priest is accused of picking up the girl at a self-service laundry near her home Tuesday afternoon.

E. N. Buie of the Fort Worth Criminal Investigation Division said a girl identified by the proprietor, Mrs. Mildred Page, as Jeannette was with him. And he said witnesses told of seeing Jeannette run from a cabin only to be caught and pulled into a car like the one Priest was driving.

Brunettes Buss Leads To Fuss In Auto Crash

PASSAIC, N.J., Nov. 19 (AP)—A brunette leaned over to kiss her male companion while she was making a turn here early today and, police say, the buss led to the following fuss:

The car jumped a curb and slammed into a fire box, knocking it down.

The fire alarm brought two engine companies, one truck company and one emergency truck to the scene.

A burglar alarm then went off in a nearby store, bringing a police prowl car speeding up moments later.

The store owner had to be called to turn off the burglar alarm. The car was so badly damaged, a tow truck had to be summoned to haul it away.

Principals in the predawn drama, according to police were Florence Aber, a night club entertainer and Michael Typs, both 32.

To top it off, police gave her a summons on this charge:

Driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Bad Railroad Blood Breached

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Eight years of bad blood between Robert R. Young and the Association of American Railroads ended today.

The breach was healed this way:

1. Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central Railroad, of which Young is board chairman, was elected an AAR director.

2. The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, which under Young's former leadership withdrew from full AAR membership in 1946, became once more a full-fledged member.

3. Walter J. Tuohy, C&O president, and Patrick B. McGinnis, Young's friend who is now president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, were also elected AAR directors.

At the same time, both the C&O and Alleghany Corp., the big holding company of which Young is board chairman, stepped out of the Federation for Railway Progress which Young founded to rival the AAR in 1947.

Young joined with William T. Faricy, president of the AAR, and with Tuohy in a joint announcement of the peace pact during the annual meeting of the AAR.

RCA Is Charged With Patent Control

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—The giant Radio Corp. of America was accused by the government today of hogging radio-television patent rights and making things tougher for other manufacturers.

The government said competing firms had been forced to depend upon RCA for such patent rights and "technical know-how."

Moreover, it added, RCA had got into a position where it could call the tune on use of new developments in radio and television—barring any not originated or controlled by RCA itself.

The government's complaints were made in a civil antitrust suit against RCA, filed in federal court here.

Officer Guilty Of Mistreatment Of Trainees, Ousted From Army

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 19 (AP)—Second Lt. Charles C. Anderson, 24-year-old Korean combat veteran, was convicted by court-marital today of mistreating Army trainees at Camp Gordon and dismissed from the service.

A general court-marital also ordered him to forfeit all allowances.

A 10-man court found Anderson guilty of charges that he maltreated trainees by ordering one man hung from a tree by the ankles and ordered excessive physical exercise for others as disciplinary measures.

The verdict is subject to review by the staff judge advocate of the convening authority and the Board of Review in the office of the judge advocate general in Washington. If the Board of Review sustains the verdict Anderson may appeal on the basis of errors of law to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals.

The sentence does not go into effect until the reviews and appeals are exhausted. Anderson has been relieved of his duties as a training officer and meanwhile will remain at Camp Gordon and "be placed in some useful duty" pending outcome of the reviews.

Anderson, a native of St. Louis who won an officer's commission at Ft. Benning, Ga., after returning from Korea, testified he used tough measures to "shape up" Co. A. of the 1st Regiment, which he described as "slovenly." He said he was given only 11 days in which to get the company into shape.

The court deliberated two hours over evidence introduced at a four-day trial.

The charges against Anderson resulted in removal of Col. James O. Wade as commanding officer of the camp's replacement training center. Brig. Gen. Francis Howard, commander of Camp Gordon, relieved Wade for "failing to investigate and report to his commanding general" charges made against Anderson by trainees.

Trainees who made the charges had been transferred to other stations when Gen. Howard learned of the accusations.

Anderson was cited for violating Army laws on two separate charges, each charge containing six separate counts. He was convicted on all six counts in the first and on four counts of the second charge.

Bandit Holds Up Bank, Gets $25,933

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19 (AP)—A bandit robbed the Lemay Bank & Trust Co. of $25,933 today, wrecked his getaway car and then commandeered another car in which he made his escape.

Squad cars of the Missouri Highway Patrol and other law enforcement authorities sped to the suburban area south of St. Louis in an effort to trap the bandit.

Edgar P. Crecelius, president of the bank, followed the robber outside the bank and fired a shotgun blast at the fleeing bandit.

The bandit forced R. J. Milligan, assistant cashier, to accompany him as he scooped up the money from three cashier cages. He held what was believed to be a pistol against Mulligan's back, forcing the bank official to move ahead of him.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 19 (AP)—Comment on politics was banned from Colombian radio programs today by the Ministry of Communications.

Dr. Sam Says Wife Slain By Spurned Lover

Detective On Stand Reads Missive That Osteopath Signed

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard once suggested in a signed statement to police that his slain wife had spurned "potential lovers" and that one of them may have murdered her. The osteopath is on trial for the slaying.

"How many of these potential lovers did she have?" the handsome osteopath was asked last July 10 during police questioning.

"Three that I know of," was Dr. Sheppard's reply, "and I am pretty sure more. I am certain there more."

Men Not Named

The men were not named, in a statement signed by Sheppard and read into the record of his first degree murder trial today by Detective Robert T. Schottke, of the Cleveland homicide squad.

Earlier, Schottke testified a house guest was rumored to be infatuated with the attractive murder victim, Marilyn Sheppard, but that Dr. Sheppard shrugged off the report.

The guest was Dr. Lester Hoversten, a Glendale, Cal., osteopath and friend of the Sheppards. He spent three days with the Sheppards and left the day before Marilyn was slain last July 4.

Hoversten took a lie detector test after the slaying and police here absolved him of any connection with the crime.

He has returned to Cleveland from California. After the trial was recessed for the weekend, the state said Hoversten will take the stand after Schottke and a fellow detective are finished—probably early next week.

Schottke testified at Sheppard's first degree murder trial that he asked him about rumors of Hoversten's infatuation.

"He said he had heard the rumors," Schottke added, "and that they might be true but that he didn't pay any attention to them because he knew his wife was faithful."

Schottke Reads Statement

Schottke read the July 10 statement into the record at the request of the state. It was Dr. Sheppard's first signed statement to police in connection with the death of his wife.

In other parts of the statement, Sheppard said his wife was jealous of his professional contacts with other women. But he denied that in discussing their marital affairs he "ever flew into a rage."

He denied two affairs with other women, which he said his wife may have referred to indirectly in talks with him.

Schottke was the first to accuse Dr. Sheppard of beating to death his pregnant, 31-year-old wife.

He testified the 30-year-old osteopath replied to the accusation in a flat, emotionless voice without any show of anger:

"Don't be ridiculous. I have devoted my life to saving other lives and I loved my wife."

Dr. Sheppard says a bushy-haired prowler invaded his home in suburban Bay Village July 4, killed his wife and twice knocked him unconscious.

Asks Death Penalty

The state, asking the death penalty, says Sheppard killed his wife after an affair with Susan Hayes, 24-year-old former technician in his hospital. He admitted seeing Miss Hayes when both were in California last March. She, too, is scheduled as a state witness.

However, Schottke testified that

Treasury Announces That It Is In Red $7,106,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Treasury announced today it went $7,106,000,000 in the red during the first four months of the current fiscal year.

This was despite a sharp cut in spending and because receipts were down. It compared with last year's red ink figure of $6,251,000,000 for the like period.

The Treasury's budget statement for the government's finances from July 1 through Oct. 31, made public today, said:

1. Spending came to $21,436,000,000, compared with $22,864,000,000—during the July-October period last year.

2. Net tax receipts were $14,329,000,000, compared with $16,613,000,000.

The deficit customarily each year runs up sharply from July through December, which is a period of low tax receipts, and then drops from January to June because of the heavy spring flow of tax receipts.

The government has officially predicted it will wind up next June 30, at the end of the current fiscal year, with a deficit of approximately $4,700,000,000. However, a statement yesterday by a Treasury official that additional new borrowing might not be necessary in the remainder of this fiscal year hinted the June 30 deficit may be lower than now officially forecast.

This, it was learned, was based on current indications in the government's accounts that spending cuts were going deeper and the tax receipt rate higher than had previously been expected.

This last appeared to be borne out by the figures published today. They showed corporation tax payments from July through October at 28 per cent less than in the same months a year before.

Field Freed, Whisked Away To Join Wife

Hermann Was Released 3 Weeks Ago After Five Years In Prison

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 19 (AP)—Hermann Field reached the free world today after five years in a Communist prison in Poland and immediately disappeared once more from view.

With the aid of Swiss and U.S. officials he was whisked away to an undisclosed place for a long-awaited reunion with his wife, Katy, and sister, Dr. Elsie Field of Urbana, Ill.

Police here said Field, a former Cleveland, Ohio, architect, had "gone into hiding in a Zurich hotel" with his family and they were under strict instructions not to say which one.

Released 3 Weeks Ago

Hermann was released from prison three weeks ago. He had been spending some time in a Warsaw sanitarium. His brother, Noel, and sister-in-law, Herta, released this week by the Hungarians, were in Budapest recuperating. Hermann disappeared while searching for Noel and Herta.

But the atmosphere of mystery and hush-hush that has surrounded the case of the Field family since they dropped from sight persisted even in free Switzerland.

In Washington Henry Suydam, the U.S. State Department press officer, denied the department was in any way involved in difficulties here by newsmen in their attempts to reach Field.

But an official of the U.S. consulate here drove the Field family to their undisclosed destination and did some maneuvering in his car to throw newsmen off the trail.

Police and airport officials kept all newsmen and photographers from close contact with Field and one Swiss photographer was manhandled while trying to get a close-up.

Somewhere In Switzerland

Fields British-born wife, Katy, told newsmen in London recently she and her husband would spend several weeks somewhere in Switzerland to enable him to recuperate from his ordeal, but she gave no indication where they intended to go.

Officials here believe Noel, a prewar State Department employe, and his wife may also come to Switzerland.

Mrs. Field and Hermann's sister, arrived here from London last night—also surrounded by official security measures. They were both at the airport to meet Field today.

Paul Ruegg, chief supervising official at the airport, said the unusual security precautions were taken on instructions from the Swiss Foreign Office which—Ruegg said—had received a specific request from U. S. Ambassador Dr. Frances E. Willis to keep newsmen away from Field.

Senate Delays Vote On Harlan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—A Senate vote on John Marshall Harlan's nomination to be a Supreme Court justice was postponed until January today after Democrats asked for more time to study his qualifications.

Harlan, 55, is now a judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for New York, Connecticut and Vermont. President Eisenhower named him to the Supreme Court Nov. 8, but the Senate must confirm the nomination.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), who said he was speaking for at least half a dozen Democratic senators, objected to immediate consideration of Harlan's appointment when it came up before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) protested against the delay, but Chairman Langer (R-ND) ruled that the nomination would have to go over to the next session of Congress, which convenes Jan. 5.

Another member of the subcommittee, Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn), commented that Republicans and Democrats have an agreement that no controversial nominations will be considered during the special Senate session called to consider censuring Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

U. S. Is Establishing Radar Chain

Seven Stations Ready In Canada, At Arctic Circle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The United States already has established the first seven of an eventual chain of radar warning stations it will build and pay for across Canada above the Arctic Circle.

This came to light today in connection with a careful, diplomatically worded, joint announcement by Ottawa and Washington. The announcement said the two countries had decided the "Distant Early Warning" line should be built—a 3,000-mile long string of radar "eyes" intended to give a six-hour warning to American cities if Soviet bombers head in over the polar cap.

U.S. Is Responsible

It also said it has been agreed that, while both Canada and the United States will participate in the project, responsibility for construction will be vested in the United States.

Reporters asked a Pentagon official if this meant the United States would bear the cost. He said "I think we'll foot the bill."

Unofficial estimates of building the Dew line in the remote, uninhabited and frozen arctic have ranged from two hundred million to one billion dollars.

The first of the radar stations was built in the area of Barter Island, off the Arctic sea coast of Alaska, more than a year ago. The Western Electric Co., which produced and installed equipment for that station, said in September 1953 that the "initial section" of Dew line was to be functioning within a year.

The Defense Department thereafter maintained tight silence about progress until today when an official, discussing with reporters the formal announcement, disclosed that seven such stations, presumably all located along the northern perimeter of Alaska, are in operation.

Linked To Filter Centers

Although still classed as experimental, these stations are linked to the radar warning filter centers of Alaska and the United States.

Construction is made difficult and expensive by frozen subsoil, ice, snow, temperatures falling far below zero, gales and, above all, the absence of people to do the work.

Equipment to start the Canadian section of the line will be shipped in next July, when ice moves out of the MacKenzie and away from the ship lane around northern Alaska. Shipments can start even earlier over the warmer Hudson Bay route, the official said.

He emphasized a "feeling of urgency" in the effort to get the line into operation.

Some of the arctic radar stations will operate automatically, requiring only occasional visits by servicing personnel. Others will be manned.

Texan Held In Kidnaping

MOUNT VERNON, Mo., Nov. 19 (AP) — A 48-year-old Texan accused of kidnaping his 12-year-old niece persisted tonight in denying any knowledge of her fate. But police said they have found clues indicating that she has been slain.

Thurman Priest, an auditor from Grand Prairie, Tex., is being held here on charges of abducting Jeannette Earnest, daughter of Mrs. Nadine Earnest of Fort Worth.

Priest turned up at a Mount Vernon tourist court Wednesday night, mumbling incoherently. Sheriff Vernon Smith said some of Jeannette's school books were found in his car.

In kidnaping charges filed in Fort Worth, Priest is accused of picking up the girl at a self-service laundry near her home Tuesday afternoon.

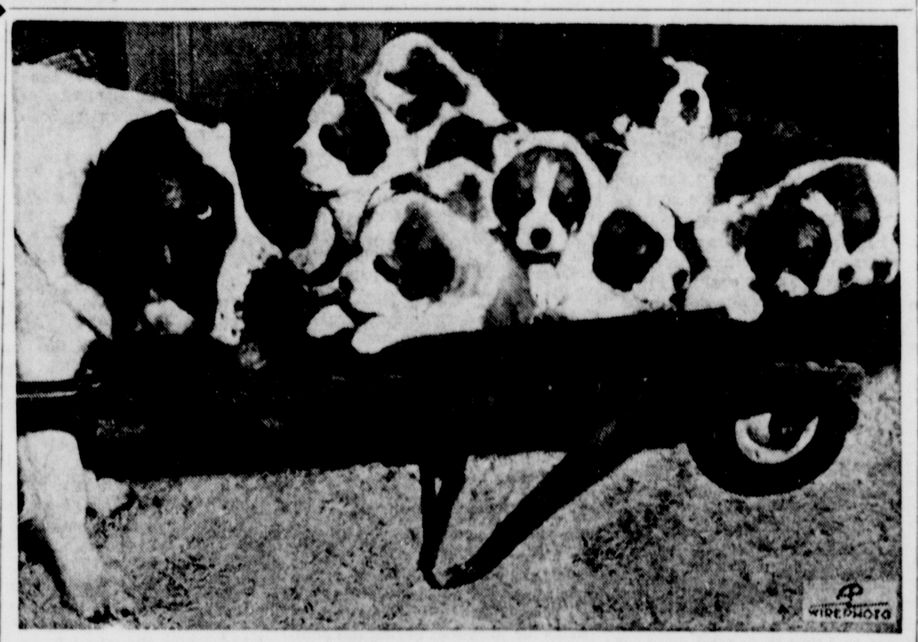

E. N. Buie of the Fort Worth Criminal Investigation Division said a girl identified by the proprietor, Mrs. Mildred Page, as Jeannette was with him. And he said witnesses told of seeing Jeannette run from a cabin only to be caught and pulled into a car like the one Priest was driving.

Brunettes Buss Leads To Fuss In Auto Crash

PASSAIC, N.J., Nov. 19 (AP)—A brunette leaned over to kiss her male companion while she was making a turn here early today and, police say, the buss led to the following fuss:

The car jumped a curb and slammed into a fire box, knocking it down.

The fire alarm brought two engine companies, one truck company and one emergency truck to the scene.

A burglar alarm then went off in a nearby store, bringing a police prowl car speeding up moments later.

The store owner had to be called to turn off the burglar alarm. The car was so badly damaged, a tow truck had to be summoned to haul it away.

Principals in the predawn drama, according to police were Florence Aber, a night club entertainer and Michael Typs, both 32.

To top it off, police gave her a summons on this charge:

Driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Bad Railroad Blood Breached

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Eight years of bad blood between Robert R. Young and the Association of American Railroads ended today.

The breach was healed this way:

1. Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central Railroad, of which Young is board chairman, was elected an AAR director.

2. The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, which under Young's former leadership withdrew from full AAR membership in 1946, became once more a full-fledged member.

3. Walter J. Tuohy, C&O president, and Patrick B. McGinnis, Young's friend who is now president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, were also elected AAR directors.

At the same time, both the C&O and Alleghany Corp., the big holding company of which Young is board chairman, stepped out of the Federation for Railway Progress which Young founded to rival the AAR in 1947.

Young joined with William T. Faricy, president of the AAR, and with Tuohy in a joint announcement of the peace pact during the annual meeting of the AAR.

RCA Is Charged With Patent Control

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—The giant Radio Corp. of America was accused by the government today of hogging radio-television patent rights and making things tougher for other manufacturers.

The government said competing firms had been forced to depend upon RCA for such patent rights and "technical know-how."

Moreover, it added, RCA had got into a position where it could call the tune on use of new developments in radio and television—barring any not originated or controlled by RCA itself.

The government's complaints were made in a civil antitrust suit against RCA, filed in federal court here.

Officer Guilty Of Mistreatment Of Trainees, Ousted From Army

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 19 (AP)—Second Lt. Charles C. Anderson, 24-year-old Korean combat veteran, was convicted by court-marital today of mistreating Army trainees at Camp Gordon and dismissed from the service.

A general court-marital also ordered him to forfeit all allowances.

A 10-man court found Anderson guilty of charges that he maltreated trainees by ordering one man hung from a tree by the ankles and ordered excessive physical exercise for others as disciplinary measures.

The verdict is subject to review by the staff judge advocate of the convening authority and the Board of Review in the office of the judge advocate general in Washington. If the Board of Review sustains the verdict Anderson may appeal on the basis of errors of law to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals.

The sentence does not go into effect until the reviews and appeals are exhausted. Anderson has been relieved of his duties as a training officer and meanwhile will remain at Camp Gordon and "be placed in some useful duty" pending outcome of the reviews.

Anderson, a native of St. Louis who won an officer's commission at Ft. Benning, Ga., after returning from Korea, testified he used tough measures to "shape up" Co. A. of the 1st Regiment, which he described as "slovenly." He said he was given only 11 days in which to get the company into shape.

The court deliberated two hours over evidence introduced at a four-day trial.

The charges against Anderson resulted in removal of Col. James O. Wade as commanding officer of the camp's replacement training center. Brig. Gen. Francis Howard, commander of Camp Gordon, relieved Wade for "failing to investigate and report to his commanding general" charges made against Anderson by trainees.

Trainees who made the charges had been transferred to other stations when Gen. Howard learned of the accusations.

Anderson was cited for violating Army laws on two separate charges, each charge containing six separate counts. He was convicted on all six counts in the first and on four counts of the second charge.

Bandit Holds Up Bank, Gets $25,933

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19 (AP)—A bandit robbed the Lemay Bank & Trust Co. of $25,933 today, wrecked his getaway car and then commandeered another car in which he made his escape.

Squad cars of the Missouri Highway Patrol and other law enforcement authorities sped to the suburban area south of St. Louis in an effort to trap the bandit.

Edgar P. Crecelius, president of the bank, followed the robber outside the bank and fired a shotgun blast at the fleeing bandit.

The bandit forced R. J. Milligan, assistant cashier, to accompany him as he scooped up the money from three cashier cages. He held what was believed to be a pistol against Mulligan's back, forcing the bank official to move ahead of him.

Dr. Sam Says Wife Slain By Spurned Lover

Detective On Stand Reads Missive That Osteopath Signed

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19 (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard once suggested in a signed statement to police that his slain wife had spurned "potential lovers" and that one of them may have murdered her. The osteopath is on trial for the slaying.

"How many of these potential lovers did she have?" the handsome osteopath was asked last July 10 during police questioning.

"Three that I know of," was Dr. Sheppard's reply, "and I am pretty sure more. I am certain there more."

Men Not Named

The men were not named, in a statement signed by Sheppard and read into the record of his first degree murder trial today by Detective Robert T. Schottke, of the Cleveland homicide squad.

Earlier, Schottke testified a house guest was rumored to be infatuated with the attractive murder victim, Marilyn Sheppard, but that Dr. Sheppard shrugged off the report.

The guest was Dr. Lester Hoversten, a Glendale, Cal., osteopath and friend of the Sheppards. He spent three days with the Sheppards and left the day before Marilyn was slain last July 4.

Hoversten took a lie detector test after the slaying and police here absolved him of any connection with the crime.

He has returned to Cleveland from California. After the trial was recessed for the weekend, the state said Hoversten will take the stand after Schottke and a fellow detective are finished—probably early next week.

Schottke testified at Sheppard's first degree murder trial that he asked him about rumors of Hoversten's infatuation.

"He said he had heard the rumors," Schottke added, "and that they might be true but that he didn't pay any attention to them because he knew his wife was faithful."

Schottke Reads Statement

Schottke read the July 10 statement into the record at the request of the state. It was Dr. Sheppard's first signed statement to police in connection with the death of his wife.

In other parts of the statement, Sheppard said his wife was jealous of his professional contacts with other women. But he denied that in discussing their marital affairs he "ever flew into a rage."

He denied two affairs with other women, which he said his wife may have referred to indirectly in talks with him.

Schottke was the first to accuse Dr. Sheppard of beating to death his pregnant, 31-year-old wife.

He testified the 30-year-old osteopath replied to the accusation in a flat, emotionless voice without any show of anger:

"Don't be ridiculous. I have devoted my life to saving other lives and I loved my wife."

Dr. Sheppard says a bushy-haired prowler invaded his home in suburban Bay Village July 4, killed his wife and twice knocked him unconscious.

Asks Death Penalty

The state, asking the death penalty, says Sheppard killed his wife after an affair with Susan Hayes, 24-year-old former technician in his hospital. He admitted seeing Miss Hayes when both were in California last March. She, too, is scheduled as a state witness.

However, Schottke testified that

Treasury Announces That It Is In Red $7,106,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Treasury announced today it went $7,106,000,000 in the red during the first four months of the current fiscal year.

This was despite a sharp cut in spending and because receipts were down. It compared with last year's red ink figure of $6,251,000,000 for the like period.

The Treasury's budget statement for the government's finances from July 1 through Oct. 31, made public today, said:

1. Spending came to $21,436,000,000, compared with $22,864,000,000—during the July-October period last year.

2. Net tax receipts were $14,329,000,000, compared with $16,613,000,000.

The deficit customarily each year runs up sharply from July through December, which is a period of low tax receipts, and then drops from January to June because of the heavy spring flow of tax receipts.

The government has officially predicted it will wind up next June 30, at the end of the current fiscal year, with a deficit of approximately $4,700,000,000. However, a statement yesterday by a Treasury official that additional new borrowing might not be necessary in the remainder of this fiscal year hinted the June 30 deficit may be lower than now officially forecast.

This, it was learned, was based on current indications in the government's accounts that spending cuts were going deeper and the tax receipt rate higher than had previously been expected.

This last appeared to be borne out by the figures published today. They showed corporation tax payments from July through October at 28 per cent less than in the same months a year before.

Adenauer's Cabinet Okays Defense Pact

Overrides Rebellion By Ministers

BONN, Germany, Nov. 19 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Cabinet overrode a rebellion by five ministers today and approved the Paris agreements to bring West Germany into the Western Defense alliance.

Bills to ratify the agreements were sent immediately to Parliament amid predictions by Adenauer and his party leaders that ratification will be completed by mid-January. But there were indications of rough sailing ahead.

Four Cabinet ministers of the Free Democratic party (DFP)—West Germany's third largest—and a member of Adenauer's own Christian Democrats (CDU) stood up and said "No" when the Cabinet voted.

This made the vote 13 to 5 for the agreements with 1 minister absent.

The official Cabinet communique did not disclose the split vote but the Free Democratic ministers who attended the session later informed their party colleagues of the five negative votes.

The opposition of the five ministers was directed against the controversial French-German agreement to make the German populated Saar a "European" territory. This agreement is one of the Paris accords.

The Free Democrats maintain the strategic industrial Saar will be lost to Germany permanently if this agreement is ratified. They approve the other Paris agreements to restore German sovereignty, create a West European Union and admit West Germany into NATO.

The refusal of the Free Democratic ministers to budge and the defection of Christian Democratic Minister Jakob Kaiser disclosed that Adenauer must reckon with powerful opposition over the Saar when Parliament votes on the Paris agreements.

France has announced the sending of more than 5,000 troops to Algeria to stamp out a revolt and the governor general of Algeria has asked for still more.

Unemployed Claims Reported On Decrease

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Labor Department reported tonight that initial claims for state unemployment compensation payments declined by 19,300 to 247,100 during the week ended Nov. 13. This compared with 274,000 for the same week last year.

Thirty-five states reported declines in initial claims from newly employed workers. The department's Bureau of Employment Security said the drop was partly due to fewer layoffs in a number of industries and partly to the Veterans Day holiday which delayed filing some claims.

Mother Delivers Her Own Baby

AUSTIN, Minn., Nov. 19 (AP)—A young housewife today delivered her own baby six weeks ahead of schedule, walked about 60 yards to a neighbor's home to call the doctor, and then walked back home to care for the infant and two older children.

Her husband was at work when Mrs. Dennis Camerer, 23, gave birth to a 3-pound, 6-ounce baby. Her other children were asleep at the time.

on last July 4 Sheppard denied keeping company with Miss Hayes. Schottke did not mention her by name.

"He stated that is not true," Schottke said.

Later in July, Dr. Sheppard testified at a coroner's inquest that he associated with Miss Hayes in California last March and bought her a wrist watch, to replace one she lost.

Bureau Favors Benson's Plan

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP) — The Maryland Farm Bureau today passed by a thumping voice vote a resolution favoring Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's plan of flexible price supports.

Support of Benson's plan came after a debate touched off by E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County delegate, who offered a resolution favoring high rigid price supports.

Lee, who managed the campaign of Democrat H. C. Byrd for governor, said agriculture must face some regulatory control to survive.

The counter resolution favoring Benson's plan won overwhelming support when put to a voice vote.

Byrd was defeated in the Nov. 2 election by Republican Gov. McKeldin.

The farm plan resolution was among a number which will be recommended for adoption by the American Farm Bureau Federation when it convenes in New York City Dec. 12-16.

The group of 250 county delegates recommended that Benson's controversial plan be given "a fair trial which will encourage the farmers to bring their total production more in line with current market demands."

It added, "this is a step toward our goal of full parity, or better, on a free market for farm products."

The delegates also expressed disapproval of the 83d Congress' measure making social security a must for self employed farmers.

They called for amendments to the law so that income obtained from farm operations after the age of 65 would be regarded as investment income.

CIO Approves Pledge To Urge Higher Parity

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Maryland Industrial Union Council (CIO), annual convention today approved a resolution pledging efforts to "restore at least 90 per cent of parity for the farmers."

The resolution also stated the council joined with farm groups and others to urge extension of rural electrification, flood control and soil conservation and solicited support of farmers and other organizations for enactment of "fair labor legislation."

Workers, the resolution said, are dependent on farmers for food and other necessities and the farmer is dependent upon industrial workers for farm machinery, household appliances "and other necessities and luxuries of life."

Other resolutions approved would:

Reaffirm a goal of seeking repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act and continued efforts toward enactment of "a fair and just labor relations act" based on principles of the Wagner Act.

Urge the incoming executive board to appoint a committee to investigate possibilities of operating a cooperative handling of electrical appliances and miscellaneous items.

Charles E. Della of Baltimore said in a secretary-treasurer's CIO-PAC report that while "we feel the PAC job was well done" and the state program has been gaining in size and strength since the last convention, "our program is not as effective as it should be for we are really just getting started."

A council official said two candidates for president during the coming year are in the field—Robert Martin of Hagerstown and Patrick Zembower of Baltimore. The present council president is Mrs. Audrey Smid of Baltimore.

The election will be held tomorrow.

Naples Curtails Lucky Luciano

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Naples tagged Charles (Lucky) Luciano a social menace today and restricted his movements for the next two years. Among other things, he will not be permitted on the streets at night — from dusk to dawn.

After a 90-minute hearing, a six-member "admonition board" ordered the deported former New York rackets boss to stay in his luxurious Naples villa after dark, to remain within 12 miles of Naples at all times and to avoid "questionable" companions. The board, a nonjudicial body, also forbade Luciano to visit places of public entertainment and directed him to carry a book in which police may record his movements.

The board's order — effective immediately — remains in force for two years, and in the event of violation Luciano may be jailed for six months. He has 10 days to appeal the decision to Prime Minister Mario Scelbo.

To a reporter who asked Luciano for comment after the hearing, he shouted:

"Get away. What do you want me to say?"

The Board had before it charges by police that Luciano who turned 57 last week, is a social menace, a threat to law enforcement, a security threat to U.S. force in Naples and "a man capable of directing the narcotics traffic from Italy to the United States."

Under Italian law a provincial admonition board has authority to restrict a person's movements when there is strong circumstantial evidence against him, but insufficient to go to court.

Luciano has been in trouble periodically since he was released from Sing Sing prison and deported to his native Italy in 1946.

Dr. Elkins Says Five University Depts. Accredited

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 19 (AP)—Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland, today announced that the five departments in the college of engineering have been again fully accredited.

Dr. Elkins said the action was taken at a recent meeting in Cincinnati of the Engineer's Council for Professional Development, the national engineering accrediting agency.

The five curricula given renewed accreditation are aeronautical, chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical.

Engineering colleges are inspected every five years.

The inspection here was made last November at the time the university as a whole was inspected by the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Hopes A-Plan Leads To Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said today he has great hopes that President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan before the United Nations will produce or lead to a solution of world tensions.

"Having mentioned the cold war," Strauss added in a speech, "I ought to say that I am not one of those who believe that it must inevitably become hot, or that if, God forbid, it should, it will necessarily convert our world into a radioactive cinder — or however the lurid descriptions read.

"And while the absolute means for avoiding it are obscure to me ident Eisenhower's atoms-for- — else I should be shouting them from the housetops — I believe that solutions are possible. For one thing, my Faith teaches me that.

"I do not believe that the Creator permitted man to evolve to this point only to use science to destroy, at one breath, all of his achievements, the monuments of his culture, his accumulated wealth of the ages — indeed all the evidences of God's love and grace."

Strauss addressed the 54th graduating class of the FBI National Academy, which trains local law enforcement officers in FBI techniques. He disclosed, without going into details, that the FBI is now making use of atomic science in its investigative work.

High Heels Loss Injury To Pride, Girl Gets $7,200

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 19 (AP)—A civil court jury figured Mary Jane Newman, 24, should get $7,200 because she can't wear high heels for any length of time and can't dance as well as before.

The sum was awarded her yesterday in her damage suit as the result of injury to her right ankle in an auto accident in 1951.

Her attorney, Alvin J. Zelonky, told the jury of eight men and four women that to deprive her of high heels, "a normal woman's advantage, is to deprive her of her pride."

Probe Results Cause Police Head To Quit

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 19 (AP) — Col. Daniel Bratton resigned today in a stormy conclusion to three years as chief of the Anne Arundel County Police Department.

His resignation came in the wake of official criticism of the department's methods of handling gambling and other cases and was accepted, effective immediately, by the County Board of Police Examiners.

Capt. Wilbur Wade, chief of detectives and a member of the county police force since it was organized in 1937, was named acting police chief by the examiners after a special afternoon meeting.

Bratton announced his resignation in a one-sentence letter to the board:

"Gentlemen," it began, "after reading all the criticism and unjust criticism toward me and the members of the police force, I hereby tender my resignation as of this date — Nov. 19, 1954."

He signed it "Respectfully submitted, Daniel Bratton."

There had been reports before the special afternoon session at the courthouse that the police board planned to fire Bratton.

His resignation marked the end of a controversial sometimes stormy, tenure in office which began with his appointment in 1951 succeeding Chief John H. Souers.

Bratton, a former Army dentist, had recently been at loggerheads with county commissioners and the state's attorney over operations of his 67-man department and had been a frequent target of press criticism about his policies.

His force was bypassed by state police last November in a raid in Brooklyn Park, near Baltimore, which resulted in nine arrests and seizure of 8 shopping bags filled with betting slips.

That touched off a probe by county commissioners and a sharp criticism of the county police. At one point board President Ralph L. Lowman accused police of tapping the telephone at Lowman's home and said Bratton knew about it. The police chief denied any knowledge of the incident.

More recently he was questioned by commissioners about charges that county policemen were handcuffed in making gambling arrests. The Board of Police Examiners recommended earlier this week, as a result of that probe, that the police department be reorganized.

Bratton's criticism by the press resulted primarily from a policy of having news of major crimes clear through him before its release to news media. This resulted in complaints of delay in finding out about arrests and, on occasion, even traffic fatalities.

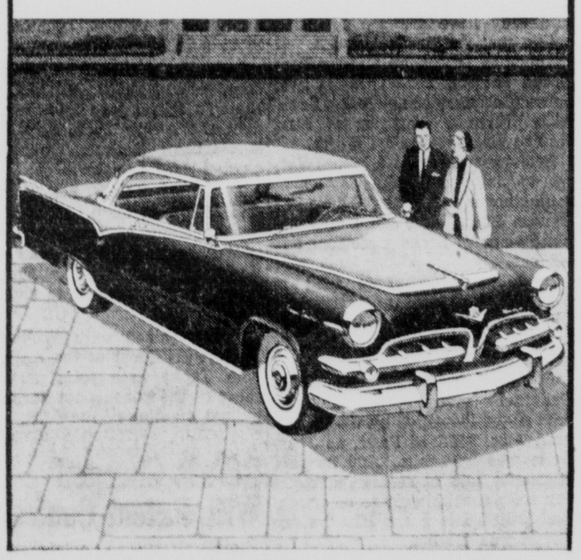

Changed His Mind, Saved Boy's Life

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 19 (AP) — Gordon C. Hill changed his mind at the last minute, decided not to run over a cardboard box in the road.

Snapshot May Be Clue In Baltimore Girl's Murder

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP)—A roll of film and a snapshot emerged today as possible new clues in the investigation of the murder of 14-year-old Carolyn Wasilewski.

Police said they are trying to identify a young man found in a snapshot embracing Carolyn, whose beaten body was found Nov. 9 on some railroad tracks.

The picture, which Carolyn had given a classmate, was turned over to police last night. They said none of Carolyn's friends who were contacted identified the man.

Police said they would like to question him in the hope he might have information which could help solve the 11-day-old murder.

As for the roll of film it was one Carolyn is believed to have left at a drug store the day she was killed. Police were told an unidentified man got the developed film after Carolyn's death.

Police still have come up with no motive for the killing.

Captain of Detectives George Mintiens said the homicide squad plans to interrogate persons interviewed last week, explaining:

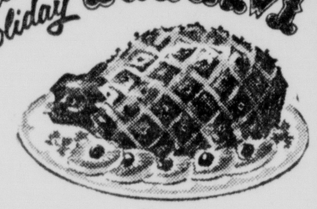

"Something might have been overlooked that could help solve the case."

Adenauer's Cabinet Okays Defense Pact

Overrides Rebellion By Ministers

BONN, Germany, Nov. 19 (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Cabinet overrode a rebellion by five ministers today and approved the Paris agreements to bring West Germany into the Western Defense alliance.

Bills to ratify the agreements were sent immediately to Parliament amid predictions by Adenauer and his party leaders that ratification will be completed by mid-January. But there were indications of rough sailing ahead.

Four Cabinet ministers of the Free Democratic party (DFP)—West Germany's third largest—and a member of Adenauer's own Christian Democrats (CDU) stood up and said "No" when the Cabinet voted.

This made the vote 13 to 5 for the agreements with 1 minister absent.

The official Cabinet communique did not disclose the split vote but the Free Democratic ministers who attended the session later informed their party colleagues of the five negative votes.

The opposition of the five ministers was directed against the controversial French-German agreement to make the German populated Saar a "European" territory. This agreement is one of the Paris accords.

The Free Democrats maintain the strategic industrial Saar will be lost to Germany permanently if this agreement is ratified. They approve the other Paris agreements to restore German sovereignty, create a West European Union and admit West Germany into NATO.

The refusal of the Free Democratic ministers to budge and the defection of Christian Democratic Minister Jakob Kaiser disclosed that Adenauer must reckon with powerful opposition over the Saar when Parliament votes on the Paris agreements.

French Troops Sent To Fight Arab Rebels

PARIS, Nov. 19 (AP)—The sending of French troops, normally assigned to the Atlantic Pact commands, to North Africa to fight Arab rebels was reported to have been discussed at high NATO levels today.

The chief conferees were Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, Allied supreme commander in Europe and Gen. Austin Guillaume, chairman of the French chiefs of staff.

France has announced the sending of more than 5,000 troops to Algeria to stamp out a revolt and the governor general of Algeria has asked for still more.

Unemployed Claims Reported On Decrease

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Labor Department reported tonight that initial claims for state unemployment compensation payments declined by 19,300 to 247,100 during the week ended Nov. 13. This compared with 274,000 for the same week last year.

Thirty-five states reported declines in initial claims from newly employed workers. The department's Bureau of Employment Security said the drop was partly due to fewer layoffs in a number of industries and partly to the Veterans Day holiday which delayed filing some claims.

Mother Delivers Her Own Baby

AUSTIN, Minn., Nov. 19 (AP)—A young housewife today delivered her own baby six weeks ahead of schedule, walked about 60 yards to a neighbor's home to call the doctor, and then walked back home to care for the infant and two older children.

Her husband was at work when Mrs. Dennis Camerer, 23, gave birth to a 3-pound, 6-ounce baby. Her other children were asleep at the time.

Bureau Favors Benson's Plan

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP) — The Maryland Farm Bureau today passed by a thumping voice vote a resolution favoring Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's plan of flexible price supports.

Support of Benson's plan came after a debate touched off by E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County delegate, who offered a resolution favoring high rigid price supports.

Lee, who managed the campaign of Democrat H. C. Byrd for governor, said agriculture must face some regulatory control to survive.

The counter resolution favoring Benson's plan won overwhelming support when put to a voice vote.

Byrd was defeated in the Nov. 2 election by Republican Gov. McKeldin.

The farm plan resolution was among a number which will be recommended for adoption by the American Farm Bureau Federation when it convenes in New York City Dec. 12-16.

The group of 250 county delegates recommended that Benson's controversial plan be given "a fair trial which will encourage the farmers to bring their total production more in line with current market demands."

It added, "this is a step toward our goal of full parity, or better, on a free market for farm products."

The delegates also expressed disapproval of the 83d Congress' measure making social security a must for self employed farmers.

They called for amendments to the law so that income obtained from farm operations after the age of 65 would be regarded as investment income.

CIO Approves Pledge To Urge Higher Parity

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—The Maryland Industrial Union Council (CIO), annual convention today approved a resolution pledging efforts to "restore at least 90 per cent of parity for the farmers."

The resolution also stated the council joined with farm groups and others to urge extension of rural electrification, flood control and soil conservation and solicited support of farmers and other organizations for enactment of "fair labor legislation."

Workers, the resolution said, are dependent on farmers for food and other necessities and the farmer is dependent upon industrial workers for farm machinery, household appliances "and other necessities and luxuries of life."

Other resolutions approved would:

Reaffirm a goal of seeking repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act and continued efforts toward enactment of "a fair and just labor relations act" based on principles of the Wagner Act.

Urge the incoming executive board to appoint a committee to investigate possibilities of operating a cooperative handling of electrical appliances and miscellaneous items.

Charles E. Della of Baltimore said in a secretary-treasurer's CIO-PAC report that while "we feel the PAC job was well done" and the state program has been gaining in size and strength since the last convention, "our program is not as effective as it should be for we are really just getting started."

A council official said two candidates for president during the coming year are in the field—Robert Martin of Hagerstown and Patrick Zembower of Baltimore. The present council president is Mrs. Audrey Smid of Baltimore.

The election will be held tomorrow.

Naples Curtails Lucky Luciano

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Naples tagged Charles (Lucky) Luciano a social menace today and restricted his movements for the next two years. Among other things, he will not be permitted on the streets at night — from dusk to dawn.

After a 90-minute hearing, a six-member "admonition board" ordered the deported former New York rackets boss to stay in his luxurious Naples villa after dark, to remain within 12 miles of Naples at all times and to avoid "questionable" companions. The board, a nonjudicial body, also forbade Luciano to visit places of public entertainment and directed him to carry a book in which police may record his movements.

The board's order — effective immediately — remains in force for two years, and in the event of violation Luciano may be jailed for six months. He has 10 days to appeal the decision to Prime Minister Mario Scelbo.

To a reporter who asked Luciano for comment after the hearing, he shouted:

"Get away. What do you want me to say?"

The Board had before it charges by police that Luciano who turned 57 last week, is a social menace, a threat to law enforcement, a security threat to U.S. force in Naples and "a man capable of directing the narcotics traffic from Italy to the United States."

Under Italian law a provincial admonition board has authority to restrict a person's movements when there is strong circumstantial evidence against him, but insufficient to go to court.

Luciano has been in trouble periodically since he was released from Sing Sing prison and deported to his native Italy in 1946.

Dr. Elkins Says Five University Depts. Accredited

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 19 (AP)—Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the University of Maryland, today announced that the five departments in the college of engineering have been again fully accredited.

Dr. Elkins said the action was taken at a recent meeting in Cincinnati of the Engineer's Council for Professional Development, the national engineering accrediting agency.

The five curricula given renewed accreditation are aeronautical, chemical, civil, electrical and mechanical.

Engineering colleges are inspected every five years.

The inspection here was made last November at the time the university as a whole was inspected by the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Hopes A-Plan Leads To Peace

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said today he has great hopes that President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan before the United Nations will produce or lead to a solution of world tensions.

"Having mentioned the cold war," Strauss added in a speech, "I ought to say that I am not one of those who believe that it must inevitably become hot, or that if, God forbid, it should, it will necessarily convert our world into a radioactive cinder — or however the lurid descriptions read.

"And while the absolute means for avoiding it are obscure to me ident Eisenhower's atoms-for- — else I should be shouting them from the housetops — I believe that solutions are possible. For one thing, my Faith teaches me that.

"I do not believe that the Creator permitted man to evolve to this point only to use science to destroy, at one breath, all of his achievements, the monuments of his culture, his accumulated wealth of the ages — indeed all the evidences of God's love and grace."

Strauss addressed the 54th graduating class of the FBI National Academy, which trains local law enforcement officers in FBI techniques. He disclosed, without going into details, that the FBI is now making use of atomic science in its investigative work.

High Heels Loss Injury To Pride, Girl Gets $7,200

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 19 (AP)—A civil court jury figured Mary Jane Newman, 24, should get $7,200 because she can't wear high heels for any length of time and can't dance as well as before.

The sum was awarded her yesterday in her damage suit as the result of injury to her right ankle in an auto accident in 1951.

Her attorney, Alvin J. Zelonky, told the jury of eight men and four women that to deprive her of high heels, "a normal woman's advantage, is to deprive her of her pride."

Probe Results Cause Police Head To Quit

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 19 (AP) — Col. Daniel Bratton resigned today in a stormy conclusion to three years as chief of the Anne Arundel County Police Department.

His resignation came in the wake of official criticism of the department's methods of handling gambling and other cases and was accepted, effective immediately, by the County Board of Police Examiners.

Capt. Wilbur Wade, chief of detectives and a member of the county police force since it was organized in 1937, was named acting police chief by the examiners after a special afternoon meeting.

Bratton announced his resignation in a one-sentence letter to the board:

"Gentlemen," it began, "after reading all the criticism and unjust criticism toward me and the members of the police force, I hereby tender my resignation as of this date — Nov. 19, 1954."

He signed it "Respectfully submitted, Daniel Bratton."

There had been reports before the special afternoon session at the courthouse that the police board planned to fire Bratton.

His resignation marked the end of a controversial sometimes stormy, tenure in office which began with his appointment in 1951 succeeding Chief John H. Souers.

Bratton, a former Army dentist, had recently been at loggerheads with county commissioners and the state's attorney over operations of his 67-man department and had been a frequent target of press criticism about his policies.

His force was bypassed by state police last November in a raid in Brooklyn Park, near Baltimore, which resulted in nine arrests and seizure of 8 shopping bags filled with betting slips.

That touched off a probe by county commissioners and a sharp criticism of the county police. At one point board President Ralph L. Lowman accused police of tapping the telephone at Lowman's home and said Bratton knew about it. The police chief denied any knowledge of the incident.

More recently he was questioned by commissioners about charges that county policemen were handcuffed in making gambling arrests. The Board of Police Examiners recommended earlier this week, as a result of that probe, that the police department be reorganized.

Bratton's criticism by the press resulted primarily from a policy of having news of major crimes clear through him before its release to news media. This resulted in complaints of delay in finding out about arrests and, on occasion, even traffic fatalities.

The corn is drying in the fields . . . the sky overhead seems shades bluer than it has ever been before and the autumn air is a tonic, bracing and cool. And on this, the most American of all holidays, thoughts go back to the first Thanksgiving and what it really meant.

It was a bare bounty for which the Pilgrims knelt to thank God. Their harvest was not a rich one, they faced the prospect of a long, bleak winter to be followed by an uncertain Spring. But still, those who had survived the rigorous year just past were deeply thankful for all that they had . . . and did not dwell upon that which they had not.

It was their faith and the faith of others like them which has enabled our country to survive and flourish. Today, more than ever, we and our children need faith like that. We need to kneel in thanks for a bounty far richer than that known or dreamed of by the Pilgrims. In the church of our choice let each of us praise and thank Him for our blessings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily

The corn is drying in the fields . . . the sky overhead seems shades bluer than it has ever been before and the autumn air is a tonic, bracing and cool. And on this, the most American of all holidays, thoughts go back to the first Thanksgiving and what it really meant.

It was a bare bounty for which the Pilgrims knelt to thank God. Their harvest was not a rich one, they faced the prospect of a long, bleak winter to be followed by an uncertain Spring. But still, those who had survived the rigorous year just past were deeply thankful for all that they had . . . and did not dwell upon that which they had not.

It was their faith and the faith of others like them which has enabled our country to survive and flourish. Today, more than ever, we and our children need faith like that. We need to kneel in thanks for a bounty far richer than that known or dreamed of by the Pilgrims. In the church of our choice let each of us praise and thank Him for our blessings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily

Politics With A Bite

"State of the Union," a smash on Broadway in 1945 when it won the Pulitzer Prize, was brought to life again on NBC color television last Monday in an hour-and-a-half long version that was as up to date as yesterday's newspaper.

"State of the Union" is the story of a presidential candidate who strongly resembles the late Wendell Willkie. Because of this, fears were expressed that the TV version would be a little out of date. However, Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, the authors, worked practically up to show time revising it, putting in topical lines practically out of the afternoon papers. With an election just out of the way, the play was about as pertinent and contemporary as anything could be.

One of the reasons this version was so forceful was that NBC allowed Lindsay and Crouse free rein to belt away at American political traditions, particularly its more hypocritical aspects, with all four of their fists. And they did so with great relish.

Right at the outset, a politician who seemed to be modelled after Jim Farley, says: "I don't trust columnists."

"I'm glad you trust publishers," "Just Republican publishers," he retorts.

The candidate, very forcefully played by Joseph Cotton, has a mistress—and there's no glossing over of that fact, either— who declares: "For the next few months I'll be sitting home alone while you're touring the country with your wife."

"Politics," observes one character, "makes strange bedfellows."

The main story line is the struggle of conscience of the presidential candidate, Grant Matthews, between the concessions and hypocrisies of practical politics and his own conviction that "you can appeal to what's best in people rather than what's worst."

This gives Lindsay and Crouse a wide open field for shrewd observations about American politics. Concerning the Hatch Act, for example, "Every so often, we pass laws repealing human nature." Concerning the impotence of the people in having any hand in selecting candidates: "If applause elected presidents, William Jennings Bryan would have had three terms."

And my own favorite line, when one person asks: "Is there any real difference between the Democratic party and the Republican" —"All the difference in the world. We're in and they're out."

And, just one more, the wife of the presidential candidate to the Jim Farley character: "You have such a complete lack of faith in sincerity—and you're so sincere about it."

In the end Mr. Matthews finds that the concessions he must make to his integrity are a little too much and bows out. About this conclusion, I'm not sure what Lindsay and Crouse had in mind. If it is that all honest men must desert politics to save their souls, then I'm forced to say I find this philosophy neither sensible nor moral. However, if they meant to say simply that apathetic citizens get just what they deserve—or, as one character says, "Lazy people, ignorant people and prejudiced people are not free"—then I think it's a very fine message indeed.

At any rate it was, for television, a tremendously honest show. As the wife who manages to lure her husband away from both the other woman and the White House, Margaret Sullavan was appealing. As the other woman—a role she seems to be stuck with for life—Nina Foch was excellent. And as the Farley character, John Cromwell was great. He's a very fine actor.

And some applause is due NBC, too, for letting Lindsay and Crouse leave in the bite.

Top School Safety Patrol Will Receive Banner Award

As a personal contribution to the safety campaign in Cumberland, Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn has instituted a monthly award to the outstanding school safety patrol.

Chief Flynn said he purposely selected this week, which is being observed as Western Maryland Safety Week, to announce the new program.

The chief of police said the award will be in recognition of the excellent safety records being compiled by the local school patrols.

Presented Each Month

Chief Flynn has acquired a banner which will be presented each month to the school which is judged the most proficient.

The banner will be allowed to hang in the winning school during the following month until another winner is selected.

It will rotate each month until the end of the school year in June when the school patrol selected as the most outstanding in the city will be given the banner permanently.

The chief of police said the Police Department's Traffic Bureau and police officers on duty with school patrols will observe and judge the activities of the various patrol groups.

Points Listed

Points in judging will be for leadership, reliability, punctuality, interest in traffic safety, respect for classmates, care of equipment and observance of safety rules.

Chief Flynn stated that the patrols are to be complimented highly on the good work they do toward saving the lives of children.

In addition to the day-to-day protection for classmates, the patrol movement is unquestionably a fine builder of morale, he added.

"It also develops a sense of responsibility which cannot but make for good citizenship. It is our hope that this competitive recognition will further encourage participation in this fine program," the chief said.

Study Group Hears Talk On Lighting

The history of lighting with exhibits of antique candlesticks and lamps featured the program of the Antiques Study Group of the Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch of the AAUW at home of Mrs. John B. Ives.

Louis B. Young, Cumberland, stated that from the dawn of history there has been a close connection between lighting and heating. The fire in front of the caveman's dwelling, the campfire of the nomad, and the campfire of covered wagon days, furnished both heat and light. In pioneer cabins the fire on the hearth gave light for reading and kept the backwoods family from freezing.

He explained that candle molds were a great boon to the housewife, who was responsible for the lighting of her household, and to the slaves whose special work was to make as many as 50,000 candles used in a year in the homes of the well-to-do. Barberry candles, then as now, were the best, he said. Pewter was the material used to make candlesticks for the kitchens of the wealthy and homes of ordinary people. The wealthy used silver candlesticks and candelabra in other parts of their mansions.

The speaker pointed out that from the time the first good burner was made in 1784 until the present, different substances have been used in lamps, namely, whale oil, sperm oil, Porter's "burning fluid," used in the camphene lamp, corza illuminating or manufactured gas used for the first in towns during the Civil War, kerosene after 1859, and finally natural gas. Mr. Young said the nearest thing to a betty lamp would be a miner's lamp, many of which were made in local tin shops. Miners later used carbide in brass lamps.

As pointers for studying antiques Mr. Young urged his audience to read about them, then examine them. He explained that an old candlestick can be told by the weight, the heavy screws, and the fact that they are not lathe-made. When buying antiques, he said, buy something that was expensive when it was made. The Argand lamps were and are very expensive. He said the "chamber or nightstick" always has a handle. He recommended "Beau Brummel" for a good "Regency" interior, and said "Gone-with-the-wind" lamps are not properly named. They came in about 1870, reached the peak of popularity during the "Gay Nineties," and were being relegated to the attic in 1910. The best of these lamps show a preponderance of white rather than so much flashy color.

Among the candlestick examples exhibited by the speaker were 17th Century Dutch brass; Adams brass; 18th Century English brass beehive, and French pushups; Sheffield, American Sheffield, Pewter and brass chamberstick, brass hurricane, French Baroque, Girandole and slag; Kerosene lamps in flint and soda glass, miniature cobalt glass night lamp, Victorian pewter, silver and brass candelabrum, and Glory light; column and case lamps.

Mrs. Perry Myers showed button and daisy design glass she bought in Somerset, Pa., during the "Pennsylvania Week." They consisted of a pitcher, cruet set, berry set and vase.

Trips to the Mountain Museum in Eckhart are being planned for early December. Groups of six will make the trips at different times.

The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. Adam Baer, Frost Avenue, January 4, at 7:30 Mrs. Nancy Van Fossen will be chairman, assisted by Miss Irma Schlosstein, Mrs. Hubert Loar, Mrs. Walter Kline, Miss Elizabeth Workman, Mrs. William Grim and Mrs. Esther Kachline.

CHARLES W. COX

Marine Sergeant Dies In Korea Of Blood Clot

World War II Injury Suspected As Cause

Mrs. Edna M. Cox, 138 Seymour Street, yesterday was notified her Marine son, Tech. Sgt. Charles W. Cox, 31, died Thursday in a Korean field hospital of a blood clot.

Mrs. Cox said that the cause of blood clot was not mentioned, but that it may have resulted from an injury her son suffered during World War II. Sgt. Cox had his feet smashed during an invasion in 1944, and was hospitalized for several months.

A veteran Marine, Sgt. Cox was attached to the Headquarters and Service Battery of the 11th Marines, First Division, in Korea. He served with the Marines during World War II in the Pacific Theatre, and left with the local company following the outbreak of the Korean conflict.

Cox also served in the Korean war and returned to the states in July 1951. Following his re-enlistment he returned to Korea with the First Division.

A native of Newburg, W. Va., he attended Fort Hill High School and was employed as a trucker at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America between World War II and the Korean conflict.

He was married to the former Viola (Boor) Cox, native of Cumberland, now residing in Lakewood, Calif.

Besides his widow and mother, he is survived by a son, Ronald Eugene Cox, a step-daughter, Patricia Ann Lookenott, and a brother, Donald B. Cox, this city. His father, Dacie Cox, died several years ago.

The body will be brought to the Hafer Funeral Home where services will be conducted. Burial will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Named Aide-de-Camp

First Lt. William J. Root, who enlisted here in June, 1947 for Army service, has been named aide-de-camp to the commanding general at Camp Stewart, Ga.

Members of the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Department have sent letters to the State Roads Commission and the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and Col. Elmer F. Munshower, head of the State P lice in connection with State Route 36 which passes through that community.

Robert H. Lepley, recording secretary for the company, said a motion was unanimously passed at a recent meeting requesting the following action:

That a double white line be painted on State Route 36 the entire distance between the posted Corriganville town limits and "No Passing" signs along the same stretch be erected.

That the State Police patrol this area more thoroughly and enforce the speed limit laws.

The commissioners instructed Somerville Nicholson, acting clerk, to write the Corriganville firemen, explaining that the county board has no control over the highway. Responsibility lies jointly with the State Roads Commission and the State Police, they note.

The letter by Lepley continued: "This action is requested with the belief that it will tend to alleviate the hazardous conditions existing for school children and other pedestrians as they walk along this highway through Corriganville. These hazardous conditions are created by excessive speed and indiscriminate passing by motorists. This dangerous driving takes place mostly in the area between the Corriganville Elementary School and the Corriganville Methodist Church.

"Also, due to the possibility of State Route 36 being partly relocated on the site of the abandoned right-of-way of the Western Maryland Railway, and since this proposal, if carried through, could possibly result in one-way traffic lanes (west-bound on the present highway; east-bound on the proposed highway), this company further asks before any decisions are made, that the following information be taken into consideration by the engineers of the State Roads Commission.

"Such a system of one-way traffic lanes would seriously hamper the efficiency of this company when answering fire alarms or other emergency calls. This would especially be true when called to a location east of the fire station. Valuable time would be lost due to the necessity of traveling west for a considerable distance before proceeding on the east-bound lane.

"This company therefore favors the relocation of State Route 36 on the site of the abandoned right-of-way of the Western Maryland Railway, but with the provision that the highway be constructed to handle the flow of traffic in both directions. Thus, with the through traffic being removed from present Route 36, this company could continue to answer fire alarms and calls without delay, and the hazardous conditions along the present highway would be greatly relieved. In addition, residents of the community who live along the present highway would benefit in the sense that what now is virtually a speedway would be transformed into a quiet 'street'."

A sensible diet can help to solve a number of beauty problems—besides controlling your weight.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

If your health and beauty thrive without regard for the principles of good diet, you are an unusual specimen. There is such a thing as eating for beauty's sake. You'd be wise to follow the "how to" rules faithfully.

What you eat affects your skin, nails, and hair, just as diet helps to determine the state of your life—as well as your weight. Besides the general rules, there are specific problems such as poor teeth, dull hair, brittle nails, and dry or oily skin.

Consult your dentist or doctor to find out if your diet is deficient in calcium and phosphorous. Both minerals are important in building strong teeth and bones. Milk is the best source of calcium; yellow cheese is another. Meat, poultry, eggs, and yellow cheese provide phosphorous.

Food For Beauty

Among the foods which help bring dull hair to life are fish-liver oil, yeast, figs, rye crisp, cabbage, spinach, oatmeal, unpeeled apples, and onions. Of course you must supplement your dietary program with frequent conditioning treatments and nightly brushing to restore lustre to your hair.

Increase your intake of milk, cheese, eggs, butter, and yeast to remedy brittle, ragged nails. Concentrate on vitamin B foods such as liver, peanuts and peanut butter, wheat germ, oranges, cottage cheese. Ask your doctor about a calcium and vitamin A and D preparation, too.

Vitamins A, B, and C are best for combating dry skin. Among vitamin A foods are eggs, dairy products, and citrus fruits. Vitamin B foods include those mentioned in the paragraph above, plus beef and lean pork, oysters, and bananas. Vitamin C is found mostly in greens and citrus fruits. The skin reacts adversely to nervous tension, so eat slowly, and avoid a large meal when you are tired or depressed.

Other Skin Problems

Treatment for an oily skin is a diet including plenty of salads, raw fruits and vegetables—particularly celery, cabbage, onions, carrots, and cucumber. Cut down on fried foods, starches, sweets, oatmeal, and all fat meat—especially pork. Skip the rich, heavy dishes; they're harmful to digestion and complexion alike!

Proper diet can help clear up a blemished skin, too. Eat these: salads, onions, raw vegetables, vegetable broth, an occasional drink of hot water with unsweetened lemon. Avoid these: fried foods, pastries, sweets. Help the clearing-up process along with medicated treatment and constant cleanliness.

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem—whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same—YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family accordidng to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

Rumors Circulate Regarding Senate Race

The election is only slightly more than two weeks past but already candidates are being mentioned or the ballot event to be conducted in Maryland in 1956.

Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore attorney and president of the Orioles baseball club, is said to be an almost certain candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor who has been unsuccessful in two attempts to win the Democratic nomination for governor and who was defeated for the Senate two years ago by Sen. J. Glenn Beall, is also considered a possibility.

Lane Also Mentioned

Still another potential candidate among Democrats is William Preston Lane, Hagerstown publisher and attorney. A former governor, Lane has been well received in Democratic circles in recent years and is regarded by many as the strongest candidate.

On the Republican side Sen. John Marshall Butler is expected to be a candidate for re-election. There is also talk that Theodore R. McKeldin who has just been elected to a second term as governor, may go after the job in opposition to Butler.

Sen. Butler took little part in the recent campaign. It will be recalled Butler headed the Taft wing at the 1952 Republican National Convention, and McKeldin the Eisenhower group. It is said that there has been bad political blood between the two ever since.

Political observers here strongly doubt that McKeldin will seek a U. S. Senate seat in 1956. If elected, he would have to resign as Governor and would be succeeded temporarily by the President of the State Senate. When the General Assembly next convenes a permanent successor would be named. In either case a Democrat certainly would succeed McKeldin.

Various political appointments, such as trial magistrates and members on certain county boards, in 1957 undoubtedly would then go to Democrats. Such political patronage is not likely to be forfeited by the Republicans.

Miles Criticized.

While Miles' activities in the Democrats-for-Eisenhower move in 1952 brought considerable criticism from members of his own party, his friends believe that he could receive heavy support from Democrats on his native Eastern Shore and poll a substantial independent vote in other sections.

Both Lane and Miles were members of the steering committee for Dr. H. C. Byrd, defeated for governor earlier this month.

Lane, defeated by McKeldin four years ago in the race for governor, is a former attorney general for Maryland.

Miles, a native of Salisbury, went to Baltimore in 1925 to take the job of People's Counsel before the Public Service Commission.

Koontz Run Dredging Brings Second Complaint To Board

A second complaint over dredging work being done by the county on Koontz Run at Lonaconing was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Miss Gertrude Green, owner of a property along the stream and her nephew, William Barnard, appeared before the board to protest the removal of part of a stone wall which they say protects the property.

Miss Green said the large stones were placed along the stream bank many years ago and county roads workers using a power shovel have torn up part of the lower wall. She said she did not object to the stream being dredged, but inquired what right the county has to dislodge the stone wall.

She also said a large oak tree at another point on her property has been undermined and poses a threat in case of high winds.

The commissioners said they would inspect the site Sunday. The dredging work was started some time ago as a result of flood waters which caused large stones, silt and other material to clog up the waterway.

An order was passed by the board for an advertisement for a medium priced two-door sedan for use by the sheriff's office. A 1953 model car now in use is to be used as a trade in on the new car.

The George Construction Company has been commissioned to remove four large concrete and brick chimneys from atop Sylvan Retreat by the county board.

The chimneys are in a bad state of repair and are no longer used in connection with the building. The George firm has the contract to re-roof the building and while they are on the site it was felt that the chimneys should be removed and the aperatures covered. Cost of the project is $987.

The chapter designated the third Tuesday of each month as its meeting date.

Rumors Circulate Regarding Senate Race

The election is only slightly more than two weeks past but already candidates are being mentioned or the ballot event to be conducted in Maryland in 1956.

Clarence W. Miles, Baltimore attorney and president of the Orioles baseball club, is said to be an almost certain candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor who has been unsuccessful in two attempts to win the Democratic nomination for governor and who was defeated for the Senate two years ago by Sen. J. Glenn Beall, is also considered a possibility.

Lane Also Mentioned

Still another potential candidate among Democrats is William Preston Lane, Hagerstown publisher and attorney. A former governor, Lane has been well received in Democratic circles in recent years and is regarded by many as the strongest candidate.

On the Republican side Sen. John Marshall Butler is expected to be a candidate for re-election. There is also talk that Theodore R. McKeldin who has just been elected to a second term as governor, may go after the job in opposition to Butler.

Sen. Butler took little part in the recent campaign. It will be recalled Butler headed the Taft wing at the 1952 Republican National Convention, and McKeldin the Eisenhower group. It is said that there has been bad political blood between the two ever since.

Political observers here strongly doubt that McKeldin will seek a U. S. Senate seat in 1956. If elected, he would have to resign as Governor and would be succeeded temporarily by the President of the State Senate. When the General Assembly next convenes a permanent successor would be named. In either case a Democrat certainly would succeed McKeldin.

Various political appointments, such as trial magistrates and members on certain county boards, in 1957 undoubtedly would then go to Democrats. Such political patronage is not likely to be forfeited by the Republicans.

Miles Criticized.

While Miles' activities in the Democrats-for-Eisenhower move in 1952 brought considerable criticism from members of his own party, his friends believe that he could receive heavy support from Democrats on his native Eastern Shore and poll a substantial independent vote in other sections.

Both Lane and Miles were members of the steering committee for Dr. H. C. Byrd, defeated for governor earlier this month.

Lane, defeated by McKeldin four years ago in the race for governor, is a former attorney general for Maryland.

Miles, a native of Salisbury, went to Baltimore in 1925 to take the job of People's Counsel before the Public Service Commission.

Koontz Run Dredging Brings Second Complaint To Board

A second complaint over dredging work being done by the county on Koontz Run at Lonaconing was received yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Miss Gertrude Green, owner of a property along the stream and her nephew, William Barnard, appeared before the board to protest the removal of part of a stone wall which they say protects the property.

Miss Green said the large stones were placed along the stream bank many years ago and county roads workers using a power shovel have torn up part of the lower wall. She said she did not object to the stream being dredged, but inquired what right the county has to dislodge the stone wall.

She also said a large oak tree at another point on her property has been undermined and poses a threat in case of high winds.

The commissioners said they would inspect the site Sunday. The dredging work was started some time ago as a result of flood waters which caused large stones, silt and other material to clog up the waterway.

An order was passed by the board for an advertisement for a medium priced two-door sedan for use by the sheriff's office. A 1953 model car now in use is to be used as a trade in on the new car.

The George Construction Company has been commissioned to remove four large concrete and brick chimneys from atop Sylvan Retreat by the county board.

The chimneys are in a bad state of repair and are no longer used in connection with the building. The George firm has the contract to re-roof the building and while they are on the site it was felt that the chimneys should be removed and the aperatures covered. Cost of the project is $987.

Daily Bridge Lesson by Barclay

MUST HAVE A STOPPER

WHENEVER a player, who is marked as having a weak hand, doubles your No-Trump game contract, it should give you pause. What could he possibly have to justify his action. In case you had bid a suit along the way, it must be that he has a stopper in it, and expects to keep you from running it. That being so, it is folly to embark on a course of play which requires you to take all the tricks in the suit. You should look around for some alternative method under which you can afford to lose a trick you at first hoped for.

	♠ J 5 2 ♥ J 9 6 3 ♦ K 10 4 ♣ 6 4 2
♠ Q 7 ♥ K Q 10 5 2 ♦ Q 6 5 ♣ Q J 9	N W E S	♠ A 10 8 4 3 ♥ A 4 ♦ A J 9 7 ♣ 10 8
	♠ K 9 6 ♥ 8 7 ♦ 8 3 2 ♣ A K 7 5 3

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Dbl.

West counted available tricks as soon as he took a cursory look at the dummy and the club 6 lead. Five in hearts, three in diamonds and even one in the black suits would make nine, so he hoped for an extra. South, seeing that he had a nice re-entry in spades, did not duck the first trick, but scored both his club tops and led to the Q.

The declarer promptly scored the heart A, K and Q, getting the bad news when South discarded the spade 9. Next he attacked diamonds, leading the Q. Since he had no re-entries to shut out the 10 with another finesse, he let the K win when North covered. North scored the heart J and led the spade 2 to the A. That enabled West to win with the diamond A, J and 9, but this made only eight tricks and he had to give South the setter with the spade 10 to the K.

If West had noted the certainty that he couldn't run the hearts, he could have found a possibility of enough tricks in diamonds—if North happened to hold both the K and 10. Upon winning the third club, he should have led the diamond Q, winning the K with the A. The heart A, K and Q would have left him in position to finesse the diamond against the 10. The J and 7 then would have furnished enough tricks to make a total of nine.

• • •

Your Week-End Question

What are the two basic ways whereby the declarer in a suit contract can try to get rid of losing cards of some side suit or suits? What should he do first before embarking on a playing plan founded on one of those procedures?

Casper Hobell's Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Casper C. Hobell, 78, who lived at RFD 5, Fairgo, at the time of his death November 6, was admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

The Liberty Trust Company qualified as executor of the estate under a $1,000 bond. Hobell stipulated that all of his estate should be converted into cash and divided equally between his nephew, Robert Hobell, and Mrs. Delia A. Cook. The will was dated June 21 of this year.

Daily Bridge Lesson by Barclay

MUST HAVE A STOPPER

WHENEVER a player, who is marked as having a weak hand, doubles your No-Trump game contract, it should give you pause. What could he possibly have to justify his action. In case you had bid a suit along the way, it must be that he has a stopper in it, and expects to keep you from running it. That being so, it is folly to embark on a course of play which requires you to take all the tricks in the suit. You should look around for some alternative method under which you can afford to lose a trick you at first hoped for.

	♠ J 5 2 ♥ J 9 6 3 ♦ K 10 4 ♣ 6 4 2
♠ Q 7 ♥ K Q 10 5 2 ♦ Q 6 5 ♣ Q J 9	N W E S	♠ A 10 8 4 3 ♥ A 4 ♦ A J 9 7 ♣ 10 8
	♠ K 9 6 ♥ 8 7 ♦ 8 3 2 ♣ A K 7 5 3

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
3 ♦	Pass	3 NT	Dbl.

West counted available tricks as soon as he took a cursory look at the dummy and the club 6 lead. Five in hearts, three in diamonds and even one in the black suits would make nine, so he hoped for an extra. South, seeing that he had a nice re-entry in spades, did not duck the first trick, but scored both his club tops and led to the Q.

The declarer promptly scored the heart A, K and Q, getting the bad news when South discarded the spade 9. Next he attacked diamonds, leading the Q. Since he had no re-entries to shut out the 10 with another finesse, he let the K win when North covered. North scored the heart J and led the spade 2 to the A. That enabled West to win with the diamond A, J and 9, but this made only eight tricks and he had to give South the setter with the spade 10 to the K.

If West had noted the certainty that he couldn't run the hearts, he could have found a possibility of enough tricks in diamonds—if North happened to hold both the K and 10. Upon winning the third club, he should have led the diamond Q, winning the K with the A. The heart A, K and Q would have left him in position to finesse the diamond against the 10. The J and 7 then would have furnished enough tricks to make a total of nine.

Your Week-End Question

What are the two basic ways whereby the declarer in a suit contract can try to get rid of losing cards of some side suit or suits? What should he do first before embarking on a playing plan founded on one of those procedures?

Polar Route Flights Shrink The World

Leave it to the hardy Scandinavians to trail blaze the first passenger flights from California to Denmark "over the hump"—that is, over the roof of the world and through the Arctic circle!

The first regularly scheduled flights in what will be a twice-a-week service started from either end of the 5,800 miles of tundra, forests, mountains, and ice floes on November 15, and were completed successfully.

The time for the eastbound flight, which took advantage of the prevailing winds, was about 22 hours. The flight time west reflects the influence of these winds on trans-continental air travel. It took three hours longer.

The combination of Norwegian, Danish, and Swedish equipment and personnel, which have been pooled to form the SAS, or Scandinavian Airlines, deserves a great deal of credit for this conquering of the Arctic. The preliminary work has been going on for more than two years, when the actual route charting and mapping commenced. One holdup was the lack of a base which would be well within the range limits of the four-engined, American-built airliners which SAS has ordered for the purpose.

The enlargement of runways and installation of modern radar and other landing aids at Bluie West 8, the big airfield in southern Greenland, removed the last obstacle. SAS planes have been flying the route both ways most of the summer, but without passengers.

Military planes have been flying the polar route for years, of course and much knowledge has been gained about plane operations and maintenance in the higher latitudes. This route isn't without its dangers. While only about one-third of the route is over water, most of the balance is over ice and uninhabited wilderness. Only on the extreme legs of the flight are conditions that might be called "normal."

The new route is some 600 miles shorter than that over the normal transcontinental air lanes. But the real significance of the polar dash may not come until jet-powered civilian transports have been proved out and placed in operation. Then, the over-the-hump route will really show how much this globe has shrunk.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"For America" Organization

When Colonel Robert R. McCormick first launched his "For America" movement, it was rightly assumed that he was planning a third party, by a union of conservative forces, eventually to replace the Republican party. This movement has now matured into activity, headed by General Robert E. Wood and Clarence E. Manion. But it is to be non-political in the sense that it will not nominate candidates for public office but is to be educational in stimulating political opinion. It looks as though it might become a conservative counterpart of the socialistic ADA.

Such movements are to be commented upon after they get going rather than at the moment of projection. The appointment of a policy committee of 43 would indicate that it has finally found its character and its stride. The policy committee includes names of great prominence but none from the leadership of the Republican party. This is significant only in the sense that the organizers are apparently avoiding a political label of any kind. It is perhaps for that reason that not a single United States senator is among the 43 recently announced.

From the start, there has been a difference of opinion among the organizers of this movement as to whether it should be actively political or educational. The activists included Hamilton Fish, who resigned when his views were rejected.

Fish, like so many dissatisfied Republicans, is seeking a conservative party which would be representative of that large element in the American people which has never become accustomed to the New Deal now pervading both parties. How large that conservative element is numerically, no one can say because it has never had the opportunity to register its strength in a presidential election since 1932.

The controlling force in the Republican party today is not conservative. It calls itself middle-of-the-road which is indefinable and tends to be opportunistic. It is constantly being pulled toward the New Deal by the compromises it has to make with it to get legislation through Congress and to meet the criticisms of a more articulate public opinion than the conservatives can produce.

In Congress, the conservative group is forceful but has become bogged down in the McCarthy quarrels. The loss of committee chairmanships will lessen the influence of many of the conservatives in the Senate; the effort that is being made to remove Joe Martin from the minority leadership can lessen conservative influence in the House of Representatives. An active but not yet effective campaign is being waged to separate Vice President Nixon from the President.

Nixon has grown in stature during the campaign and the conservatives now lean on him as their only approach to the White House. They will no longer deal with Sherman Adams. They used to feel that they could reach the President through General Wilton B. Persons and Jack Martin who had been Senator Taft's administrative assistant. They had confidence only in these two members of the White House staff. It is now believed that both are being undermined by the Tom Dewey-John J. McCloy-Paul Hoffman group in the White House who read the election returns as a confirmation of the President's personal popularity while it is a rejection of the Republican party in Congress.

In this atmosphere the Republican party can decay. In the years between 1933 and 1953, when the Republicans were out of office, hope burned eternal that someday the party might return to power and then the Republicans would go to town, publishing secret documents, pursuing congressional investigations, replacing Democrats, catching Communists and spies. That was the spirit of the 1952 convention.

Now the Republicans have been in office two years and little of this has occurred. In fact, the work of the congressional committees has bogged down altogether in the McCarthy fight. And at the end of two years, none of the secret documents have been published, few Democrats have been replaced and while Senators McCarthy and Jenner have gone after Communists and spies, they have been slapped down for their efforts.

So the talk of a third party continues and all sorts of plans and devices are in the air. They will continue to be in the air unless a national leadership appears which is more like Lincoln than like Fremont. Such a leadership has not yet appeared.

Slight Delay In The Mendes-France Parade

United States Greets Unprecedented Number Of Foreign State Visitors

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It was just a short time ago that only one president of a foreign country or one member of a royal family visited the United States in four years. The King and Queen of the Belgians, for instance, came to the United States during World War I, and this royal visit, plus the remark of New York's Mayor Hylan, "You said a mouthful, Queen," were so rare that both were remembered until the arrival of the next crowned head.

She was Queen Marie of Romania who came during the Coolidge administration; and the whole town, plus, later, a good part of the United States, turned out to see her.

Four years later Ramsay MacDonald, then Prime minister of England, came to see Herbert Hoover, and his visit was so leisurely that they spent a weekend sitting on a log at the Rapidan fishing camp in Virginia. Diplomacy took its time in those days. Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of state, spent three months in London in 1930 trying to iron out a naval treaty. He did not fly to Manila for two days, to Bonn for one day, and Geneva for five days.

Not only did prime ministers arrive only once every four years or so, but they came by steamship, and spent plenty of time conferring.

Today, how different! Today, the Detroit assembly-line technique moulds our diplomacy. Today, one prime minister is no more than welcomed than he is shooed out the door. These days, while the queen mother of England is in the United States, the prime minister of Japan arrives. And during the week of his departure, the premier of France is welcomed, to be followed within one day by the chancellor of Austria, plus the prime ministers of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, plus a Danish prince—all arriving within a matter of hours.

In the Hoover-Roosevelt-Truman administrations, a prime minister rated a night's visit at the White House plus an official dinner. Today he rates a lunch. Royalty visiting presidents used to rate an official welcome at the Union Station by the American president in a top hat. Now they have to be satisfied with Mr. Nixon and no hat.

Bad Diplomatic Management

Part of this stampede of distinguished visitors is pure accident, part is bad management. All of it emphasizes the world leadership of the United States.

But the manner in which these heads of foreign nations are literally herded in one door and out the next is not going to help the future foreign relations of the U.S.A.

For instance, the prime minister of Pakistan, Mohammed Ali, arrived in the United States while President Eisenhower was still in Denver, and was kept cooling his heels. Ike had been expected back, but changed his mind. So the prime minister was taken on a sight-seeing tour waiting for the President to return.

This delay jammed up the rest of the schedule. For, while Prime Minister Mohammed Ali was here, the president of Liberia also arrived. His visit had been carefully times to coincide with the election campaign in order to help win Negro votes for the Republicans; so his trip couldn't be postponed.

On top of this and while the Liberian president was still here, came Chancellor Adenauer of Germany. This was an emergency trip aimed at strengthening the chancellor's hand in the delicate program of rearming Germany.

While both President Turman of Liberia and Adenauer were still here, the queen mother of England arrived in New York. Her trip had been planned for months and she was merely following schedule. The Adenauer visit which conflicted with hers was arranged at the last minute.

Then before the queen mother left Washington, there arrived Premier Yoshida of Japan. His trip had been scheduled, then postponed, then rescheduled, because of local Japanese problems, plus Ike's absence in Denver.

Premier Yoshida left Washington on November 13, the queen on November 10. Immediately on their heels on November 17 came Premier Mendes-France of France. Also on November 17 arrived the vice president of India, Dr. Sarvapalli Radahakrishnan. Both India and France are extremely important countries as far as the United States is concerned. Essential to the defense of Europe and Asia, they both have been the targets of strong Communist propaganda. To have representatives of these two countries arrive on the same day is the height of bad diplomatic management.

Plethora Of Prime Ministers

One day after the departure of Mendes-France, arrives Chancellor Julius Raab of Austria, November 21. Austria is also a key country in the defense of Europe, also a central target of communism.

And while the chancellor of Austria is still here, the prime ministers of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark will be herded into the White House, on November 24, for lunch. It would seem that the prime ministers of the three Scandinavian nations rated a dinner rather than a mere lunch, but according to current White House protocol they don't.

Immediately after Thanksgiving, December 6, arrives the prime minister of Ceylon, Sir John Kotelawala, after which there will be a short lull until January when President Magloire of Haiti comes to pay his respects.

The above list, of course, does not include such distinguished visitors as the King and Queen of Greece, Prime Minister Churchill, the emperor of Ethiopia, the president of Turkey and Governor General Vincent Massey of Canada who also paid official visits earlier in the year. However, their trips were not bunched so closely together and were not given the assembly-line welcome handed out to visiting notables this fall.

NOTE—Last December the presiding officer of the Brazilian Senate, who corresponds to the vice president of the United States, wanted to visit the halls of Congress and pay his respects to the presiding officers of the U. S. Congress. With him was the former foreign minister of Brazil, Oswaldo Aranha, a great friend of the U.S.A. But the machinery for welcoming distinguished visitors was such that this newsman was the only one on deck to show them around Congress, while gracious Speaker Joe Martin and kindy Les Biffle were the only officials who took the trouble to be present on a Saturday to welcome them.

Ex-Senator Terms Today's Legislators 'Thin-Skinned'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Former Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Democrat, who was one of the toughest of the cross-examiners on congressional committees in his time, met this correspondent the other day and remarked:

"What a spectacle the Senate is making of itself these days! How thin-skinned they are! Why, in the days of LaFollette and Borah and Jim Reed we wouldn't have spent our time worrying about what one senator said in denouncing another."

The elder Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin in a Senate speech, for example, called Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, Republican, "a cringing creature" and added that "God almighty has given him a hump on his back, crouching, cringing, un-American and unmanly."

Requested Expulsion

Mr. Kellogg had presented a request to the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections calling for the expulsion of LaFollette on charge of "sedition and disloyalty."

No censure resolution was ever proposed for any such remark. Indeed, the same Senator LaFallette not only defied this Senate subcommittee by refusing to appear before it for cross-examination but on another occasion he did exactly what Senator McCarthy is being condemned for — he invited thousands of federal employes to disregard an executive order and to give him information about what was happening inside the executive branch of the government.

The elder LaFollette since has been extolled as a great liberal by public speakers, including former President Truman.

The incitement to disregard presidential decrees occurred in 1912 as a consequence of two executive orders—one issued in January 1906 by President Theodore Roosevelt and the other in November 1909 by President William Howard Taft — forbidding government employes from giving information to members of Congress under penalty of dismissal. The second executive order read in part:

"Nor shall any such person respond to any request for information from either house of Congress or any committee or either house of Congress, or any member of Congress, except through, or as authorized by, the head of his department."

Senator LaFollette wrote to thousands of government employes, primarily the mail clerks. Here is how "LaFollette's Weekly," in an article placed in the Congressional Record on August 10, 1912, commented on this "gag order:"

Revealed Mistreatment

"Denied the right to petition Congress for relief from conditions such as these, the mail clerks determined to protect themselves by organizing. This drew from the administration a series of persecutions almost unparalleled. The men were told, in effect, that activity along these lines would mean the loss of their jobs. Senator LaFollette took hold of this situation. He addressed letters to all the mail clerks asking for the facts. From the pile of correspondence he received, a most appalling mistreatment of goverment employes and American citizens is revealed."

Representative Lloyd, in a speech in the House at the time, said:

"If no government employe is permitted to speak, excepting through his department chiefs, and the department chief through the cabinet officer, then this is an aristocratic government, dominated completely by the official family of the President. If the principle enunciated in these executive orders is to be carried to the extreme, then there is no possible way of obtaining information excepting through the cabinet officers, and if these officials desire to withhold information and suppress the truth or to conceal their official acts it is within their power to do so."

Then "LaFollette's Weekly," commenting further, said: "The 'gag rule' is un-American, unjust. It may fit into the scheme of things in a country like Russia, but is entirely antagonistic to the spirit of our institutions. It is a slap at the Constitution and an affront to our citizens."

Then both houses of Congress passed a law which is still on the statute books. It permits executive employes without penalty to transmit to members of Congress information they request.

Law Passed

The Watkins Committee significantly quoted the statute in question. It conceded that Senator McCarthy is a person "authorized" under the context of the law to receive information, but insisted that he could not make public any "classified" information. This, of course, he didn't do. But that's also a debatable point, for an executive officer could call anything "classified" and suppress information or fire an employe who gave the facts on corruption or treason to a member of Congress. The Watkins Committee didn't press any censure charge on this ground.

The important point is that this is a very old issue, and yet millions of words have been written recently condemning the Wisconsin senator out of hand for "inciting" government employes to violate the "law" when he did what his predecessor from Wisconsin did. For, in urging government employes to give data to members of Congress despite an executive order — which, of course, is not law unless Congress sanctions it — the late Senator LaFollette performed 42 years ago a constructive service to government employes, the benefits of which are still available to them today.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Odd ingredient in the ides of November is total evaporation of the fusionists. Every candidate drove on his side of the road.

There were no independents depending on the organized malcontents and the chartered grouches. The sparse liberals were snowed under like a boy sugaring his own oat-meal.

If there were any commickers around they must have voted on Halloween.

The splinter parties were down to shavings on the lumberyard floor. There were no ham-and-eggs running as loose as goats on a hill.

This was strictly a hand-to-mouth struggle between the Republicans and Democrats for first shake in the old plum orchard.

You cannot tag Morse a dead-in-the-wool independent because he's stringing with the Democrats. We would describe Morse's status as a spectator in a football stadium with a whistle.

There was a splendid vacuum of crackpots in the millions of numbered opinions. Which canceled Moscow's claim that Americans are as apathetic as a well-fed cat.

It could be possible that the fusionists blew a fuse. They were tied up with more combinations than the daily double in a rat race.

LaGuardia was the last of the great fusel oil manipulators. He was picking the splinter parties out of his political seat during all his administrations. His greatest contribution to progress was to chase the hurdy-gurdys off the sidewalks of New York. Why, nobody knows.

Sidelights On Murder

By Bob Considine

CLEVELAND — A brutal and generally over-publicized murder trial such as that of Dr. Sam Sheppard attracts crackpots, religious cranks and earnest do-gooders by the scores. Or more.

The weeks of trying to get a jury in the case were marked by questions concerning a jury-talk letter sent to every member of the venire by some poor addled soul who felt the whole business was bing directed by the Vatican.

Last week there was a fellow outside the criminal courts building with an uplifted sandwich sign indicating he knew the name of Marilyn's slaughterer. He had a deck of pink-colored handouts in onc of his paws, which was covered with a white glove with the ends of the glove fingers cut off. He did a lively business until arrested and jailed on the highly disputable charge of contempt of court.

Woman Hurls Confetti

The man kept saying "my story has been read by Cecil B. DeMille and Republic Steel." He didn't see mto know just what the story was. The handouts had nothing to do with Dr. Sam.

A badly scrambled lady stormed into the corridors outside Judge Blythin's courtroom not long ago, snouting passages from the Bible and throwing illegal football blocks at Eddie LaVelle, cherubic bull in charge of those limits. Another lady, also overcome first by strange forces within her and later by the cops, showed up to hurl confetti.

Judge, jury, defendant, relatives and the working press are besieged each day by mail containing complete solutions to the tricky case. Dr. Richard Sheppard, eldest of the brother-osteopaths, tapped me on the shoulder during a recess today to deliver to me a letter from a Chicago lady. It had been enclosed in an envelope addressed to Drs. Richard and Stephen Sheppard. I quote:

"My Dear Mr. Considine:

"It was July. The weather was warm. Dr. Sheppard took off his jacket and laid it neatly on the couch. He also took off his T-shirt and laid it on the couch beside the jacket.

"As you know, T-shirts come in three sizes: small, medium and large. They stretch like hell. I wear them most of the time around the house.

"There were two bandits. Both men were experienced law breakers. They were too clever to leave fingerprints. After Dr. Sheppard was unconscious, they had plenty of time to remove fingerprints. While one bandit was killing Marilyn, another bandit was trying to kill Dr. Sheppard.

Chilly, Not Hot

"When he was attacked, he became aroused and instinctively realized he was in serious danger. It was a hot night. (Ed. Note: It was one of the chilliest nights of the summer).

"Dr. Sheppard battled with the stranger and chased him to the beach. He gave the bandit a broken jaw, a broken rib, and a smashed nose. While they were rolling on the beach and fighting for supremacy, Dr. Sheppard's pants became spattered with blood from a smashed nose.

"He was then knocked unconscious and the waves from the beach water-soaked his pants. While he was lying on the beach, the bandits erased all finger prints. They took Dr. Sheppard's T-shirt and helped themselves to whatever clothing they needed to get away.

"The dog (Ed. Note: It didn't bark during the murder) could have been kicked in the head or given a sleeping potion on raw meat and kicked into a closet. They may have wiped up some blood spots on the floor in order not to get blood on their shoes." See?

Breaking Health Rules Often Leads To Heart Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The Coronary Club is a select group of individuals who have survived a bout with coronary thrombosis. No one wants to be a member, yet after the heart attack occurs, the victim is more than willing to join the organization.

Membership is automatic for survivors. Eligibility is not limited by race, color, creed, or sex. Most of the group are middle-aged or older but a few are in their 20s or 30s. Women are not excluded from membership, but the weaker sex is less likely to encounter heart attacks. Consequently, they seldom are candidates.

The easiest way to enroll is to break all health rules by working too hard, assuming too much responsibility, and getting too little sleep. Many of our leaders in business, labor, politics, and the professions are wizards in their fields but do not know how to regulate their affairs. Jobs come before personal considerations and they never have learned to relax even when lunching or after the day's work should be over.

Weekends have no meaning and the brief case is filled with overflow office work. Fishing, hunting, golfing, gardening, and woodworking are not for them. Vacations are a waste of time and money. Since these executives never have learned to say no, all invitations to banquets and to serve on committees are accepted. Such men are the best prospects for the Coronary Club.

Unfortunately, these persons cannot be made to mend their ways until a heart attack occurs. The lesson is risky for the 80 per cent who survive but many are wiser and, ultimately, find themselves happier. The majority can expect to regain good health and to carry on for many years thereafter. Those who profit by earlier mistakes begin to live for the first time after passing through a crisis. For this reason, the coronary club has numerous advantages.

During recuperation, there is ample opportunity to mediate and take stock of the way of living and make plans for future readjustments. It is surprising how philosophical many become. The experience affords an excellent excuse for not doing what the individual does not care to do.

A prominent Chicago member said: "Every time anyone asks you to do something unpleasant you merely have to say that our health won't permit it." This also explains why Charles Yale Harrison wrote a book entitled, "Thank God For My Heart Attack."

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

John O'Ren tells about a noted author who has become more and more crotchety in his old age—also more and more intemperate—thereby constituting himself a major problem to the staff at the exclusive club he frequents. Very much in his cups the other day, he hollered for an attendant, and when nobody came running on the double, flew into a rage. When a waiter finally arrived, he demanded, "Have you the faintest idea who I am?" "No, sir," admitted the waiter, who had been added to the staff just that morning, "but you sit right where you are, mister, and I'll find out for you."

Norman Reilly Raine recalls a famous Hollywood magnate who decided he wanted to produce an epic on Custer's Last Stand, but then turned thumbs down on seven scripts. The final veto broke Raine's spirit. "I'm ready to give up," he admitted. "I really slaved over this last script. It's the best I can do. Just what is there about it that displeases you?" "I'll tell you," confided the magnate slowly. "I . . . hate . . . Indians!"

Polar Route Flights Shrink The World

Leave it to the hardy Scandinavians to trail blaze the first passenger flights from California to Denmark "over the hump"—that is, over the roof of the world and through the Arctic circle!

The first regularly scheduled flights in what will be a twice-a-week service started from either end of the 5,800 miles of tundra, forests, mountains, and ice floes on November 15, and were completed successfully.

The time for the eastbound flight, which took advantage of the prevailing winds, was about 22 hours. The flight time west reflects the influence of these winds on trans-continental air travel. It took three hours longer.

The combination of Norwegian, Danish, and Swedish equipment and personnel, which have been pooled to form the SAS, or Scandinavian Airlines, deserves a great deal of credit for this conquering of the Arctic. The preliminary work has been going on for more than two years, when the actual route charting and mapping commenced. One holdup was the lack of a base which would be well within the range limits of the four-engined, American-built airliners which SAS has ordered for the purpose.

The enlargement of runways and installation of modern radar and other landing aids at Bluie West 8, the big airfield in southern Greenland, removed the last obstacle. SAS planes have been flying the route both ways most of the summer, but without passengers.

Military planes have been flying the polar route for years, of course and much knowledge has been gained about plane operations and maintenance in the higher latitudes. This route isn't without its dangers. While only about one-third of the route is over water, most of the balance is over ice and uninhabited wilderness. Only on the extreme legs of the flight are conditions that might be called "normal."

The new route is some 600 miles shorter than that over the normal transcontinental air lanes. But the real significance of the polar dash may not come until jet-powered civilian transports have been proved out and placed in operation. Then, the over-the-hump route will really show how much this globe has shrunk.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"For America" Organization

When Colonel Robert R. McCormick first launched his "For America" movement, it was rightly assumed that he was planning a third party, by a union of conservative forces, eventually to replace the Republican party. This movement has now matured into activity, headed by General Robert E. Wood and Clarence E. Manion. But it is to be non-political in the sense that it will not nominate candidates for public office but is to be educational in stimulating political opinion. It looks as though it might become a conservative counterpart of the socialistic ADA.

Such movements are to be commented upon after they get going rather than at the moment of projection. The appointment of a policy committee of 43 would indicate that it has finally found its character and its stride. The policy committee includes names of great prominence but none from the leadership of the Republican party. This is significant only in the sense that the organizers are apparently avoiding a political label of any kind. It is perhaps for that reason that not a single United States senator is among the 43 recently announced.

From the start, there has been a difference of opinion among the organizers of this movement as to whether it should be actively political or educational. The activists included Hamilton Fish, who resigned when his views were rejected.

Fish, like so many dissatisfied Republicans, is seeking a conservative party which would be representative of that large element in the American people which has never become accustomed to the New Deal now pervading both parties. How large that conservative element is numerically, no one can say because it has never had the opportunity to register its strength in a presidential election since 1932.

The controlling force in the Republican party today is not conservative. It calls itself middle-of-the-road which is indefinable and tends to be opportunistic. It is constantly being pulled toward the New Deal by the compromises it has to make with it to get legislation through Congress and to meet the criticisms of a more articulate public opinion than the conservatives can produce.

In Congress, the conservative group is forceful but has become bogged down in the McCarthy quarrels. The loss of committee chairmanships will lessen the influence of many of the conservatives in the Senate; the effort that is being made to remove Joe Martin from the minority leadership can lessen conservative influence in the House of Representatives. An active but not yet effective campaign is being waged to separate Vice President Nixon from the President.

Nixon has grown in stature during the campaign and the conservatives now lean on him as their only approach to the White House. They will no longer deal with Sherman Adams. They used to feel that they could reach the President through General Wilton B. Persons and Jack Martin who had been Senator Taft's administrative assistant. They had confidence only in these two members of the White House staff. It is now believed that both are being undermined by the Tom Dewey-John J. McCloy-Paul Hoffman group in the White House who read the election returns as a confirmation of the President's personal popularity while it is a rejection of the Republican party in Congress.

In this atmosphere the Republican party can decay. In the years between 1933 and 1953, when the Republicans were out of office, hope burned eternal that someday the party might return to power and then the Republicans would go to town, publishing secret documents, pursuing congressional investigations, replacing Democrats, catching Communists and spies. That was the spirit of the 1952 convention.

Now the Republicans have been in office two years and little of this has occurred. In fact, the work of the congressional committees has bogged down altogether in the McCarthy fight. And at the end of two years, none of the secret documents have been published, few Democrats have been replaced and while Senators McCarthy and Jenner have gone after Communists and spies, they have been slapped down for their efforts.

So the talk of a third party continues and all sorts of plans and devices are in the air. They will continue to be in the air unless a national leadership appears which is more like Lincoln than like Fremont. Such a leadership has not yet appeared.

Slight Delay In The Mendes-France Parade

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It was just a short time ago that only one president of a foreign country or one member of a royal family visited the United States in four years. The King and Queen of the Belgians, for instance, came to the United States during World War I, and this royal visit, plus the remark of New York's Mayor Hylan, "You said a mouthful, Queen," were so rare that both were remembered until the arrival of the next crowned head.

She was Queen Marie of Romania who came during the Coolidge administration; and the whole town, plus, later, a good part of the United States, turned out to see her.

Four years later Ramsay MacDonald, then Prime minister of England, came to see Herbert Hoover, and his visit was so leisurely that they spent a weekend sitting on a log at the Rapidan fishing camp in Virginia. Diplomacy took its time in those days. Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of state, spent three months in London in 1930 trying to iron out a naval treaty. He did not fly to Manila for two days, to Bonn for one day, and Geneva for five days.

Not only did prime ministers arrive only once every four years or so, but they came by steamship, and spent plenty of time conferring.

Today, how different! Today, the Detroit assembly-line technique moulds our diplomacy. Today, one prime minister is no more than welcomed than he is shooed out the door. These days, while the queen mother of England is in the United States, the prime minister of Japan arrives. And during the week of his departure, the premier of France is welcomed, to be followed within one day by the chancellor of Austria, plus the prime ministers of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, plus a Danish prince—all arriving within a matter of hours.

In the Hoover-Roosevelt-Truman administrations, a prime minister rated a night's visit at the White House plus an official dinner. Today he rates a lunch. Royalty visiting presidents used to rate an official welcome at the Union Station by the American president in a top hat. Now they have to be satisfied with Mr. Nixon and no hat.

Bad Diplomatic Management

Part of this stampede of distinguished visitors is pure accident, part is bad management. All of it emphasizes the world leadership of the United States.

But the manner in which these heads of foreign nations are literally herded in one door and out the next is not going to help the future foreign relations of the U.S.A.

For instance, the prime minister of Pakistan, Mohammed Ali, arrived in the United States while President Eisenhower was still in Denver, and was kept cooling his heels. Ike had been expected back, but changed his mind. So the prime minister was taken on a sight-seeing tour waiting for the President to return.

This delay jammed up the rest of the schedule. For, while Prime Minister Mohammed Ali was here, the president of Liberia also arrived. His visit had been carefully times to coincide with the election campaign in order to help win Negro votes for the Republicans; so his trip couldn't be postponed.

On top of this and while the Liberian president was still here, came Chancellor Adenauer of Germany. This was an emergency trip aimed at strengthening the chancellor's hand in the delicate program of rearming Germany.

While both President Turman of Liberia and Adenauer were still here, the queen mother of England arrived in New York. Her trip had been planned for months and she was merely following schedule. The Adenauer visit which conflicted with hers was arranged at the last minute.

Then before the queen mother left Washington, there arrived Premier Yoshida of Japan. His trip had been scheduled, then postponed, then rescheduled, because of local Japanese problems, plus Ike's absence in Denver.

Premier Yoshida left Washington on November 13, the queen on November 10. Immediately on their heels on November 17 came Premier Mendes-France of France. Also on November 17 arrived the vice president of India, Dr. Sarvapalli Radahakrishnan. Both India and France are extremely important countries as far as the United States is concerned. Essential to the defense of Europe and Asia, they both have been the targets of strong Communist propaganda. To have representatives of these two countries arrive on the same day is the height of bad diplomatic management.

Plethora Of Prime Ministers

One day after the departure of Mendes-France, arrives Chancellor Julius Raab of Austria, November 21. Austria is also a key country in the defense of Europe, also a central target of communism.

And while the chancellor of Austria is still here, the prime ministers of Norway, Sweden, and Denmark will be herded into the White House, on November 24, for lunch. It would seem that the prime ministers of the three Scandinavian nations rated a dinner rather than a mere lunch, but according to current White House protocol they don't.

Immediately after Thanksgiving, December 6, arrives the prime minister of Ceylon, Sir John Kotelawala, after which there will be a short lull until January when President Magloire of Haiti comes to pay his respects.

The above list, of course, does not include such distinguished visitors as the King and Queen of Greece, Prime Minister Churchill, the emperor of Ethiopia, the president of Turkey and Governor General Vincent Massey of Canada who also paid official visits earlier in the year. However, their trips were not bunched so closely together and were not given the assembly-line welcome handed out to visiting notables this fall.

NOTE—Last December the presiding officer of the Brazilian Senate, who corresponds to the vice president of the United States, wanted to visit the halls of Congress and pay his respects to the presiding officers of the U. S. Congress. With him was the former foreign minister of Brazil, Oswaldo Aranha, a great friend of the U.S.A. But the machinery for welcoming distinguished visitors was such that this newsman was the only one on deck to show them around Congress, while gracious Speaker Joe Martin and kindy Les Biffle were the only officials who took the trouble to be present on a Saturday to welcome them.

Ex-Senator Terms Today's Legislators 'Thin-Skinned'

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Former Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Democrat, who was one of the toughest of the cross-examiners on congressional committees in his time, met this correspondent the other day and remarked:

"What a spectacle the Senate is making of itself these days! How thin-skinned they are! Why, in the days of LaFollette and Borah and Jim Reed we wouldn't have spent our time worrying about what one senator said in denouncing another."

The elder Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin in a Senate speech, for example, called Senator Kellogg of Minnesota, Republican, "a cringing creature" and added that "God almighty has given him a hump on his back, crouching, cringing, un-American and unmanly."

Requested Expulsion

Mr. Kellogg had presented a request to the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections calling for the expulsion of LaFollette on charge of "sedition and disloyalty."

No censure resolution was ever proposed for any such remark. Indeed, the same Senator LaFallette not only defied this Senate subcommittee by refusing to appear before it for cross-examination but on another occasion he did exactly what Senator McCarthy is being condemned for — he invited thousands of federal employes to disregard an executive order and to give him information about what was happening inside the executive branch of the government.

The elder LaFollette since has been extolled as a great liberal by public speakers, including former President Truman.

The incitement to disregard presidential decrees occurred in 1912 as a consequence of two executive orders—one issued in January 1906 by President Theodore Roosevelt and the other in November 1909 by President William Howard Taft — forbidding government employes from giving information to members of Congress under penalty of dismissal. The second executive order read in part:

"Nor shall any such person respond to any request for information from either house of Congress or any committee or either house of Congress, or any member of Congress, except through, or as authorized by, the head of his department."

Senator LaFollette wrote to thousands of government employes, primarily the mail clerks. Here is how "LaFollette's Weekly," in an article placed in the Congressional Record on August 10, 1912, commented on this "gag order:"

Revealed Mistreatment

"Denied the right to petition Congress for relief from conditions such as these, the mail clerks determined to protect themselves by organizing. This drew from the administration a series of persecutions almost unparalleled. The men were told, in effect, that activity along these lines would mean the loss of their jobs. Senator LaFollette took hold of this situation. He addressed letters to all the mail clerks asking for the facts. From the pile of correspondence he received, a most appalling mistreatment of goverment employes and American citizens is revealed."

Representative Lloyd, in a speech in the House at the time, said:

"If no government employe is permitted to speak, excepting through his department chiefs, and the department chief through the cabinet officer, then this is an aristocratic government, dominated completely by the official family of the President. If the principle enunciated in these executive orders is to be carried to the extreme, then there is no possible way of obtaining information excepting through the cabinet officers, and if these officials desire to withhold information and suppress the truth or to conceal their official acts it is within their power to do so."

Then "LaFollette's Weekly," commenting further, said: "The 'gag rule' is un-American, unjust. It may fit into the scheme of things in a country like Russia, but is entirely antagonistic to the spirit of our institutions. It is a slap at the Constitution and an affront to our citizens."

Then both houses of Congress passed a law which is still on the statute books. It permits executive employes without penalty to transmit to members of Congress information they request.

Law Passed

The Watkins Committee significantly quoted the statute in question. It conceded that Senator McCarthy is a person "authorized" under the context of the law to receive information, but insisted that he could not make public any "classified" information. This, of course, he didn't do. But that's also a debatable point, for an executive officer could call anything "classified" and suppress information or fire an employe who gave the facts on corruption or treason to a member of Congress. The Watkins Committee didn't press any censure charge on this ground.

The important point is that this is a very old issue, and yet millions of words have been written recently condemning the Wisconsin senator out of hand for "inciting" government employes to violate the "law" when he did what his predecessor from Wisconsin did. For, in urging government employes to give data to members of Congress despite an executive order — which, of course, is not law unless Congress sanctions it — the late Senator LaFollette performed 42 years ago a constructive service to government employes, the benefits of which are still available to them today.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Odd ingredient in the ides of November is total evaporation of the fusionists. Every candidate drove on his side of the road.

There were no independents depending on the organized malcontents and the chartered grouches. The sparse liberals were snowed under like a boy sugaring his own oat-meal.

If there were any commickers around they must have voted on Halloween.

The splinter parties were down to shavings on the lumberyard floor. There were no ham-and-eggs running as loose as goats on a hill.

This was strictly a hand-to-mouth struggle between the Repulicans and Democrats for first shake in the old plum orchard.

You cannot tag Morse a dead-in-the-wool independent because he's stringing with the Democrats. We would describe Morse's status as a spectator in a football stadium with a whistle.

There was a splendid vacuum of crackpots in the millions of numbered opinions. Which canceled Moscow's claim that Americans are as apathetic as a well-fed cat.

It could be possible that the fusionists blew a fuse. They were tied up with more combinations than the daily double in a rat race.

LaGuardia was the last of the great fusel oil manipulators. He was picking the splinter parties out of his political seat during all his administrations. His greatest contribution to progress was to chase the hurdy-gurdys off the sidewalks of New York. Why, nobody knows.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

John O'Ren tells about a noted author who has become more and more crotchety in his old age—also more and more intemperate—thereby constituting himself a major problem to the staff at the exclusive club he frequents. Very much in his cups the other day, he hollered for an attendant, and when nobody came running on the double, flew into a rage. When a waiter finally arrived, he demanded, "Have you the faintest idea who I am?" "No, sir," admitted the waiter, who had been added to the staff just that morning, "but you sit right where you are, mister, and I'll find out for you."

Norman Reilly Raine recalls a famous Hollywood magnate who decided he wanted to produce an epic on Custer's Last Stand, but then turned thumbs down on seven scripts. The final veto broke

Raine's spirit. "I'm ready to give up," he admitted. "I really slaved over this last script. It's the best I can do. Just what is there about it that displeases you?" "I'll tell you," confided the magnate slowly. "I . . . hate . . . Indians!"

A Michigan sheriff nabbed three men trying to saw their way out of jail while they sang loudly to drown out the noise. The news item didn't reveal the tune they yodeled but we've an idea it might have been "The Prisoner's Song."

See Hollywood is planning a movie based on the life of Mahatma Gandhi. A costume (or lack of it?) drama, no doubt.

Dodgers' Prexy Denies Report Of Club's Sale

Brooklyn Will Not Move, O'Malley Says

BROOKLYN, Nov. 19 (AP)—President Walter J. O'Malley of the Brooklyn Dodgers said today there are no present plans to move or sell the Dodgers.

Fresh from a tour of the Caribbean winter leagues, O'Malley returned to his executive offices and reaffirmed his intentions of keeping the National League club in Brooklyn.

"What the future holds, I don't know," O'Malley admitted. "But there is no league discussion scheduled to discuss moving the club and I have no present plans to move or sell.

"Somebody has been trying to buy the club every month since I can remember."

The Brooklyn president agreed that at one time he had explored the possibilities of moving to the Pacific Coast. "That was some time ago," he said.

The reference apparently was to some period prior to an offer last year by Ed Pauley, a California oil millionaire, to bring the team to Los Angeles.

"At the time I was interested only in the extreme future," O'Malley said.

Resigns As Coach Baltimore Bullets

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP)—Clair Bee, former Long Island University basketball coach has resigned as coach of the Baltimore Bullets in the National Basketball Assn.

Owner John Knox, attempting to deal off his debt-ridden franchise, announced today that Bee had quit as of Nov. 10 and that Al Barthelme, Bee's assistant who has coached the team the last five games, has been hired to finish the season.

The announcement came just before Maurice Podoloff, NBA president, again extended Baltimore's deadline to give the club a chance to save its failing franchise. Podoloff who had switched the deadline from tonight to Monday, now will reserve a decision on the Bullets until next Friday.

Podoloff was here today to confer with Knox and Rudy Schaffer, Bullets general manager.

Both Podoloff and Schaffer said it was "entirely possible" interested capital has popped up in the Baltimore picture. When asked about the reported $100,000 needed to purchase and operate the club, this campaign, Podoloff said $100,000 is the maximum. It could cost a lot less for operation."

Bee assumed full control of the Bullets, running both the front office and the team, midway of last winter under the ownership of Knox and his partner, George Robinson.

The team finished that season last with a 16-56 record. Business debts are piled high and a television contract has been lost.

Bee felt "embarrassed" earlier in the week when talk of other coaches taking over came up. He left for his Roscoe, N.Y., home to await developments, and said his absence could be interpreted as a resignation if the management wanted it that way.

Barthelme took over the club in Boston.

The Bullets, winners of only two games in 10 starts in the still infant season, met Fort Wayne here tonight.

Dave Ramsey Killed, McAfee, Shelton Hurt On Murderous Route

OAXACA, Mexico, Nov. 19 (AP)—Two Americans were killed and two injured today in the Pan-American road race as drivers from all parts of the world sped their machines over the mountainous backbone of Southern Mexico in the opening day.

Jack McAfee, a third American, originally reported by the Mexican radio to have been killed, was found in an official recheck to have been injured.

Ford Robinson of Sherman Oaks, Calif. was killed and McAfee, of Manhattan Beach, Calif., was injured when their red Ferrari shot off the road between Tuxtla Gutierrez and Oaxaca.

Four Die This Year

Robinson's death brought the toll to four for the 1954 race. Two Argentine drivers and an American had been killed in pre-race tests.

Earlier, the Mexican Highway police said David Ramsey of El Paso, Tex. had been killed during the night as he drove a Jaguar service car. His companion, Ed Shelton, was injured. The accident happened near Tehuantepec.

Two Argentine drivers were killed last weekend as they made a trial spin over a part of the murderous 1,908 mile route that stretches from the southern border of Mexico to Juarez, opposite El Paso, Tex. The race is scheduled to end Tuesday.

Originally 164 drivers registered to compete but many failed to arrive and this morning 15 entries in the small U.S. stock car class failed to start because of engine trouble. Others, including much-married Porfirio Rubirosa, were eliminated when they failed to make the 329.3 miles of today's lap in the required five hours.

Mickey Thompson of Del Monte, Calif., was the official leader in the small U.S. stock car class—the Fords, Chevrolets and Dodges. He was timed in 4 hours, 18 minutes, 6 seconds. Four minutes, 11 seconds behind him came Tommy Drisdale of El Paso, Tex., in a Dodge. Dan Morgan of Pueblo, Colo., originally listed as the leader in this division, was shunted to third on a revision of times. His time was 4:24:11.

Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., driving a Ferrari, had the fastest time of the day and was the leader in the sports car class. He was clocked in 3 hours, 25 minutes, 16 seconds—an average of 94 miles an hour.

McAfee and Robinson were trying to catch Hill when they crashed.

The big stock car class had Ray Crawford of Pasadena, Calif., in a Lincoln, as the leader with a time of 3:59:47.

Everybody's In Fog At Pimlico, Fans Can't See Prices On Board

Running In Thick Fog Flying Jet Pays $46

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP)—Everybody was literally in a fog today at Pimlico race track.

It was so thick that the fans were lucky to get a glimpse of the finish of the first race and then they couldn't see the prices on the board in the centerfield. The winner named Flying Jet paid $46.60.

The stewards couldn't see the starting line. The starter—Eddie Blind—had to call them by telephone to notify them when the horses got in the gate. He called them again to say they were off.

The stewards have to push a button to stop betting when the race starts.

Visibility was less than a sixteenth of a mile at the track.

The automatic timer didn't work and human clockers couldn't see the start so there were no checks on how fast the races were run. The official chart caller couldn't distinguish the jockey silks and listed only the finish positions instead of at several stages in the race.

Farmington was headed for a title shot last year but was derailed by Romney in a 13-12 contest. The Farmers defeated Romney, which is now a Class "A" school on November 6 by the score of 13-7.

Latter's Purse Held Up After Garden Bout; Hearing Set Monday

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Floyd Patterson, 19-year-old Olympic grad, floored third-ranked Jimmy Slade five times while winning a unanimous decision in eight rounds tonight as the Madison Square Garden choral group sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Patterson weighed 169¼, Slade 175.

After the bout Bob Cristenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, announced he was holding up Slade's purse and ordering a hearing Monday at which Slade would be asked to explain his poor performance.

Slade, who deflated Hurricane Tommy Jackson last April and wasn't dropped in 10 losing rounds with Bob Baker, the No. 4 heavyweight, went down twice in the first and once each in the second, third and eighth.

The crowd of 3,325 that paid $9,160 to see the nationally televised bout booed Slade through most of the bout. In the late rounds they joined voices for a little choir practice in the upper gallery.

Referee Harry Kessler and Judge Harold Barnes scored it an 8-0 shutout for Patterson. Judge Jack Gordon had it 7-0-1, calling the sixth even. The AP card was 8-0. Referee Kessler talked to Slade during the sixth roind, apparently telling him to step up his action.

Washington & Lee To Field Varsity Eleven Next Year

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 19 (AP)—Washington and Lee "definitely" will field a varsity football team next year and expects to play a seven or eight game schedule, President Francis P. Gaines said tonight.

In accordance with university policy laid down when subsidized football was abandoned earlier this year, the 1955 club will be an "amateur" team and will compete with other "amateur" teams, Dr. Gaines said.

Washington and Lee's football schedule for this fall was cancelled when the university decided to give up subsidization. But a "junior varsity" team representing W&L has played several other college jayvee squads and prep school teams.

Dr. Gaines said he did not know who would coach the 1955 varsity team which he said would attempt to schedule games with outfits of the caliber of Davidson, Sewanee, Centre College and Wabash.

Consider The Dog As A Living Being

"Let sleeping dogs lie" is as good advice today as it was when the adage was first created, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

When a sleeping dog is suddenly awakened, his first instinct is defense, and his primary means of defense are his teeth, it is pointed out. Any person foolhardy enough to awaken a strange dog by poking a finger at him, or in some other manner, can blame no one for the inevitable consequences.

Many cases of dog bites have been caused by teasing or molesting of a dog by a small child who has never been taught the difference between toys and living beings. Parents who permit their children to pull a dog's fur, ears or tail, poke him in the eyes or mouth, clamber over him, and the like, without stopping or correcting him, are simply inviting trouble. There is less chance of trouble with a mature dog than a puppy, and with a large dog than one of the smaller breed.

Six Suspended In New York's Boxing Inquiry

Four Are Involved In TV Levy Racket

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (INS)—The New York State Athletic Commission suspended two matchmakers and four managers today and Chairman Bob Christenberry announced that the commission's "inquiry" 'into a managerial monopoly will become a full-scale "investigation."

The whip-cracking chairman suspended the license of Matchmaker Tex Sullivan and assistant matchmaker Angelo Pucci of the London Sporting Club, promoter of televised (DuMont) Monday night fights at St. Nicholas Arena.

He also suspended managerial license of Al Braverman, president of the Metropolitan Boxing Alliance, Bill Daly, secretary-treasurer of the International Boxing Guild, Lippy Breidbart, who handles heavyweight Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, and Gus D'Amato, whose young light heavy, Floyd Patterson, is tonight's Madison Square Garden main eventer against Jimmy Slade.

Levied $100 "Donations"

Cause of the disciplinary action against Sullivan, Pucci, D'Amato and Daly was a revelation that the Cuild has been levying a $100 "doration" from managers of TV fighters and that Sullivan and Pucci had deducted it from purses in violation of commission rules.

Braverman was suspended following admission that he twice was convicted for bookmaking in 1947 and 1949. He was charged with concealing the information on his license application. Breidbart failed to appear as ordered at today's inquiry.

The commission inquiry grew out of MBA charges that the Guild was guilty of blacklisting and monopoly practices. Christenberry said there must be no more solicitation of TV "donations" and no blacklisting or monopoly.

"Otherwise," he warned, "boxing will have to end in this state."

He also blasted the practice, revealed in today's testimony, of licensed "booking" representatives.

Christenberry said a full-dress investigation will begin Tuesday morning.

Underworld Mentioned

Prominent boxing managers took turns denying during the day that they ever have business dealings with Frank Carbo or other underworld figures.

Christenberry confronted witnesses with rogues' gallery photographs of Carbo, convicted murderer Eddie Coco and others reputed to wield influences behind the boxing scenes.

Answers ranged from flat denials to admissions that Carbo was known in a "social way" but no other. Daily said:

"Boxing is just like show business. You know of these people. You run into them here and there."

St. Patrick's Will Fete Grid League Champions Sunday

The Mothers' Club of the school will prepare and serve the meal.

Ohio State Needs Win Or Tie To Cop Big Ten Title Today

Game With Michigan Will Attract 82,000; Trojans Meet UCLA

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Ohio State and Michigan meet Saturday with the Big Ten championship, a place in the Rose Bowl and possibly the national football title at stake and, for once, everybody will get a chance to see the game.

The NCAA television committee, which picked this "game of the week" last summer, really hit the jackpot with the choice. And the impact on attendance hasn't been noticeable in Columbus, where the 82,000 seat stadium is completely sold out and fans are hopefully bidding $30 or so for tickets.

At Los Angeles, UCLA and Southern California come together to decide the Pacific Coast Conference title before 102,000 spectators and at Iowa City, Notre Dame and Iowa meet before a sellout crowd in a replay of last year's most controversial game.

Needs Win Or Tie

Ohio State, winner of eight straight games, needs only a victory or a tie against its most respected rivalto win the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl bid. Southern California already has clinched the other place in the Rose Bowl, since UCLA isn't eligible.

Oklahoma plays Nebraska while Notre Dame is out to erase the "fainting" stigma from last year's 14-14 tie with Iowa. That was the game in which a couple of injuries to Notre Dame players—or was it good acting?—gave the Irish the time they needed to tie the score. But the tie cost them a perfect season and the top ranking.

Oklahoma, also ineligible for a bowl game this year, has the opportunity to knock Nebraska out of an Orange Bowl bid. The expected defeat for Nebraska, coupled with a Kansas State victory over Colorado, would leave those two teams tied for second place in the Big Seven conference. Kansas State probably would get the bowl trip because of its 7-3 victory over Nebraska.

Elsewhere the bowl games are tied up with the Southern Methodist-Baylor and Duke-South Carolina contests, but they're not likely to decide any of the New Year's Day contestants.

SMU can eliminate Baylor as a possible Cotton Bowl choice. Arkansas turns to outside competition against Louisiana State this week.

Terps Seek Bowl Bid

Duke, winner of its two Atlantic Coast Conference games, will meet South Carolina. Maryland, hopeful of returning to the Orange Bowl, has finished its conference season with four victories and a tie. Maryland takes on its neighbor, George Washington.

In the East, Yale and Harvard meet for the 71st time and the interest this game has stirred up hardly indicates that Ivy League football has been de-emphasized.

The rest of Saturday's program lines up this way:

Pitt Faces Penn State

Tradition also holds sway in the East with Penn State-Pittsburgh, Dartmouth-Princeton, Rutgers-Columbia, Syracuse-Fordham and Lafayette-Lehigh among the headliners.

The standout Southern games are Tennessee-Kentucky, Clemson-Auburn, North Carolina-Virginia, North Carolina State-West Virginia and Wake Forest-William and Mary.

The Southwest offers Texas Christian-Rice and Wyoming-Tulsa and the Far West Stanford-California, Oregon-Oregon State, Washington - Washington State, Utah-Montana, Brigham Young - Idaho and Arizona State-Arizona.

Fans Sing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" As Patterson Gets Decision Over Slade

Latter's Purse Held Up After Garden Bout; Hearing Set Monday

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP)—Floyd Patterson, 19-year-old Olympic grad, floored third-ranked Jimmy Slade five times while winning a unanimous decision in eight rounds tonight as the Madison Square Garden choral group sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart." Patterson weighed 169¼, Slade 175.

After the bout Bob Cristenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, announced he was holding up Slade's purse and ordering a hearing Monday at which Slade would be asked to explain his poor performance.

Slade, who deflated Hurricane Tommy Jackson last April and wasn't dropped in 10 losing rounds with Bob Baker, the No. 4 heavyweight, went down twice in the first and once each in the second, third and eighth.

The crowd of 3,325 that paid $9,160 to see the nationally televised bout booed Slade through most of the bout. In the late rounds they joined voices for a little choir practice in the upper gallery.

Referee Harry Kessler and Judge Harold Barnes scored it an 8-0 shutout for Patterson. Judge Jack Gordon had it 7-0-1, calling the sixth even. The AP card was 8-0. Referee Kessler talked to Slade during the sixth roind, apparently telling him to step up his action.

Everybody's In Fog At Pimlico, Fans Can't See Prices On Board

Running In Thick Fog Flying Jet Pays $46

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP)—Everybody was literally in a fog today at Pimlico race track.

It was so thick that the fans were lucky to get a glimpse of the finish of the first race and then they couldn't see the prices on the board in the centerfield. The winner named Flying Jet paid $46.60.

The stewards couldn't see the starting line. The starter—Eddie Blind—had to call them by telephone to notify them when the horses got in the gate. He called them again to say they were off.

The stewards have to push a button to stop betting when the race starts.

Visibility was less than a sixteenth of a mile at the track.

The automatic timer didn't work and human clockers couldn't see the start so there were no checks on how fast the races were run. The official chart caller couldn't distinguish the jockey silks and listed only the finish positions instead of at several stages in the race.

Farmington High Is West Virginia Class "B" Champ

WESTON, W. Va., Nov. 19—Farmington High School of Marion county won the Class "B" football championship of West Virginia tonight by crushing Rupert High of Greenbrier county by the score of 39 to 13.

The teams had identical records of eight wins, no losses and one tie prior to tonight's game. Farmington was tied by Fairmont West, 14-14, and Marlinton battled Rupert to a 12-12 draw.

Farmington was headed for a title shot last year but was derailed by Romney in a 13-12 contest. The Farmers defeated Romney, which is now a Class "A" school on November 6 by the score of 13-7.

Washington & Lee To Field Varsity Eleven Next Year

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 19 (AP)—Washington and Lee "definitely" will field a varsity football team next year and expects to play a seven or eight game schedule, President Francis P. Gaines said tonight.

In accordance with university policy laid down when subsidized football was abandoned earlier this year, the 1955 club will be an "amateur" team and will compete with other "amateur" teams, Dr. Gaines said.

Washington and Lee's football schedule for this fall was cancelled when the university decided to give up subsidization. But a "junior varsity" team representing W&L has played several other college jayvee squads and prep school teams.

Dr. Gaines said he did not know who would coach the 1955 varsity team which he said would attempt to schedule games with outfits of the caliber of Davidson, Sewanee, Centre College and Wabash.

Consider The Dog As A Living Being

"Let sleeping dogs lie" is as good advice today as it was when the adage was first created, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York.

When a sleeping dog is suddenly awakened, his first instinct is defense, and his primary means of defense are his teeth, it is pointed out. Any person foolhardy enough to awaken a strange dog by poking a finger at him, or in some other manner, can blame no one for the inevitable consequences.

Many cases of dog bites have been caused by teasing or molesting of a dog by a small child who has never been taught the difference between toys and living beings. Parents who permit their children to pull a dog's fur, ears or tail, poke him in the eyes or mouth, clamber over him, and the like, without stopping or correcting him, are simply inviting trouble. There is less chance of trouble with a mature dog than a puppy, and with a large dog than one of the smaller breed.

Six Suspended In New York's Boxing Inquiry

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (INS)—The New York State Athletic Commission suspended two matchmakers and four managers today and Chairman Bob Christenberry announced that the commission's "inquiry" 'into a managerial monopoly will become a full-scale "investigation."

The whip-cracking chairman suspended the license of Matchmaker Tex Sullivan and assistant matchmaker Angelo Pucci of the London Sporting Club, promoter of televised (DuMont) Monday night fights at St. Nicholas Arena.

He also suspended managerial license of Al Braverman, president of the Metropolitan Boxing Alliance, Bill Daly, secretary-treasurer of the International Boxing Guild, Lippy Breidbart, who handles heavyweight Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, and Gus D'Amato, whose young light heavy, Floyd Patterson, is tonight's Madison Square Garden main eventer against Jimmy Slade.

Levied $100 "Donations"

Cause of the disciplinary action against Sullivan, Pucci, D'Amato and Daly was a revelation that the Cuild has been levying a $100 "doration" from managers of TV fighters and that Sullivan and Pucci had deducted it from purses in violation of commission rules.

Braverman was suspended following admission that he twice was convicted for bookmaking in 1947 and 1949. He was charged with concealing the information on his license application. Breidbart failed to appear as ordered at today's inquiry.

The commission inquiry grew out of MBA charges that the Guild was guilty of blacklisting and monopoly practices. Christenberry said there must be no more solicitation of TV "donations" and no blacklisting or monopoly.

"Otherwise," he warned, "boxing will have to end in this state."

He also blasted the practice, revealed in today's testimony, of licensed "booking" representatives.

Christenberry said a full-dress investigation will begin Tuesday morning.

Underworld Mentioned

Prominent boxing managers took turns denying during the day that they ever have business dealings with Frank Carbo or other underworld figures.

Christenberry confronted witnesses with rogues' gallery photographs of Carbo, convicted murderer Eddie Coco and others reputed to wield influences behind the boxing scenes.

Answers ranged from flat denials to admissions that Carbo was known in a "social way" but no other. Daily said:

"Boxing is just like show business. You know of these people. You run into them here and there."

Ohio State Needs Win Or Tie To Cop Big Ten Title Today

Game With Michigan Will Attract 82,000; Trojans Meet UCLA

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Ohio State and Michigan meet Saturday with the Big Ten championship, a place in the Rose Bowl and possibly the national football title at stake and, for once, everybody will get a chance to see the game.

The NCAA television committee, which picked this "game of the week" last summer, really hit the jackpot with the choice. And the impact on attendance hasn't been noticeable in Columbus, where the 82,000 seat stadium is completely sold out and fans are hopefully bidding $30 or so for tickets.

At Los Angeles, UCLA and Southern California come together to decide the Pacific Coast Conference title before 102,000 spectators and at Iowa City, Notre Dame and Iowa meet before a sellout crowd in a replay of last year's most controversial game.

Needs Win Or Tie

Ohio State, winner of eight straight games, needs only a victory or a tie against its most respected rivalto win the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl bid. Southern California already has clinched the other place in the Rose Bowl, since UCLA isn't eligible.

Oklahoma plays Nebraska while Notre Dame is out to erase the "fainting" stigma from last year's 14-14 tie with Iowa. That was the game in which a couple of injuries to Notre Dame players—or was it good acting?—gave the Irish the time they needed to tie the score. But the tie cost them a perfect season and the top ranking.

Oklahoma, also ineligible for a bowl game this year, has the opportunity to knock Nebraska out of an Orange Bowl bid. The expected defeat for Nebraska, coupled with a Kansas State victory over Colorado, would leave those two teams tied for second place in the Big Seven conference. Kansas State probably would get the bowl trip because of its 7-3 victory over Nebraska.

Elsewhere the bowl games are tied up with the Southern Methodist-Baylor and Duke-South Carolina contests, but they're not likely to decide any of the New Year's Day contestants.

SMU can eliminate Baylor as a possible Cotton Bowl choice. Arkansas turns to outside competition against Louisiana State this week.

Terps Seek Bowl Bid

Duke, winner of its two Atlantic Coast Conference games, will meet South Carolina. Maryland, hopeful of returning to the Orange Bowl, has finished its conference season with four victories and a tie. Maryland takes on its neighbor, George Washington.

In the East, Yale and Harvard meet for the 71st time and the interest this game has stirred up hardly indicates that Ivy League football has been de-emphasized.

The rest of Saturday's program lines up this way:

Pitt Faces Penn State

Tradition also holds sway in the East with Penn State-Pittsburgh, Dartmouth-Princeton, Rutgers-Columbia, Syracuse-Fordham and Lafayette-Lehigh among the headliners.

The standout Southern games are Tennessee-Kentucky, Clemson-Auburn, North Carolina-Virginia, North Carolina State-West Virginia and Wake Forest-William and Mary.

The Southwest offers Texas Christian-Rice and Wyoming-Tulsa and the Far West Stanford-California, Oregon-Oregon State, Washington - Washington State, Utah-Montana, Brigham Young - Idaho and Arizona State-Arizona.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(INS)—We note with delight that our old pal, Jack Kearns, is authoring a book to be called "Larceny Can Be Lovely."

And we can think of nobody who could know more about that alluring subject than our old pal Jack. This opus should be a masterpiece if Jack is going to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, particularly about larceny in the fight racket.

One thing worries us, however. Will Jack define larceny as the dictionary does or will he consider it merely as a sharp working of all the angles?

We wonder if Jack will tell us how he dug up all those tankers for Jack Dempsey before he inveigled the late Tex Rickard into giving Dempsey a chance to slaughter Jess Willard for the heavyweight title.

The amusing part of that tank tour for Dempsey was that Dempsey—on the level—could, and did flatten all the stiffs Kearns dug up.

Then Kearns might care to tell us who banged the bell ending the first round in Louisville when Paul Swiderski stiffened Kearns' middleweight champion, Mickey Walker.

Of course brother Kearns would not cut a round short to save his man's title. Perish the thought. Anyhow, who ever rang the bell surely saved Walker's title that night.

It may be that brother Kearns will want to give us the inside dope on how he managed to break the town of Shelby, Montana, the time he had Dempsey defending his title against Tommy Gibbons. Of course, Kearns had the law on his side. He was merely shylocking his pound of flesh when he demanded cash in advance.

Since we suspect that it was Kearns' shrewd brain that thought up the Guild, as a safe sure bet for the leading members thereof, we hope he will give us all the details of its operation.

If Jack reveals all these things, and a million other sidelights only he can supply, we guarantee his book will be both interesting and enlightening.

And in passing as a last thought we hope he'll tell us how he went through the $3,000,000 he made with Dempsey.

While their mother was engaged in a lengthy telephone conversation two Falmouth, Me., tots found a can of white paint and "redecorated" several pieces of furniture and the floor. We thought this Do-It-Yourself business was being overdone!

Pimlico Special Today Draws Six Three-Year-Olds

Arcaro Will Pilot Fisherman, $35,000 Purse Goes To Winner

Little Colt To Seek 6th Win; CBS Radio To Carry Race At 4:15

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP)—C.V. Whitney's Fisherman and William G. Helis Jr.'s Helioscope get their last chance tomorrow in the Pimlico Special to sway any votes to them in balloting for championship honors of the year.

A smashing victory by either over four other colts in the mile and three sixteenths race might persuade enough minds at the last minute to pick him the top 3-year-old.

None was able to dominate the popular division this season and the voting might well be split. The Thoroughbred Racing Assn., which takes a poll of racing secretaries and handicappers, realized this and postponed its voting from the usual Nov. 15 until next Monday so returns from the Special could be considered.

3-Year-Olds To Vie

Pimlico owners had that exactly in mind when they limited their invitations to the Special to 3-year-olds after it had been run the past 16 times as an open event.

The wide open character of the 3-year-old division was revealed when the three races of the Triple Crown were won by three different horses, Determine, Hasty Road and High Gun.

Kentucky Derby winner Determine hasn't raced since July, Hasty Road has gone down hill since winning the Preakness although he is one of the Special entries, and High Gun appeared to have forged to the fore until he was hurt Nov. 1.

High Gun skipped the first two Triple Crown races and then won the windup Belmont on June 12. It was his second victory of the year and he followed with two more in the Dwyer and Sysbony.

Arcaro To Ride

He was hurt while training for the Laurel International and Fisherman, rushed in to replace him, won the race. It was the fifth victory of the year for the little colt who will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro for the second time in the Special.

Helioscope is a latecomer like High Gun. He won three straight stakes in New Jersey in October. His string was stopped Nov. 6 by Maine Chance Farm's Jet Action in the Roamer Handicap at Jamaica. But Helioscope had to carry 129 pounds to 118 on Jet Action and tomorrow they'll be at even weight of 122 with all the others.

The others include R. W. McIlvain's Hasseyampa, third in both the Derby and Preakness, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McMacken's King Maple, Canada's best 3-year-old.

Winner To Get $35,000

The winner will get $35,000 and $15,000 will be divided the next two to finish. There will be no telecast of the race, but the CBS radio network will interrupt its college football roundup for about five minutes to carry a running account (4:15 p.m. EST).

Richards Plans To Use Woodling In Cleanup Spot

White Sox Reported Interested In Gene

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP) — Paul Richards, manager-general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, and General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox talked player swaps today, but Richards said afterwards "if anything develops, it will be very light."

It would take a whale of a White Sox-Oriole deal to match Richards' transaction with the New York Yankees yesterday involving at least 12 players.

"We might have started something today that will develop later," said Richards after huddling with Lane, "but nothing has happened yet."

The White Sox were believed interested in outfielder Gene Woodling, one of the nine Yankees for three Orioles in yesterday's big deal.

However, Richards already has said that Woodling, at the moment, is the Oriole cleanup hitter.

Richards shrugged off criticism that the Yankees probably traded themselves into the American League pennant with pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen, and shortstop Billy Hunter from the Orioles.

"Let's wait and see how both sides come out," said Richards. "When you are dealing in human beings, you can't make flat predictions."

Martinez's Bribe Story To Be Aired Before Grand Jury

PATERSON, N.J., Nov. 19 (AP)—The Passaic County prosecutor said today he will refer the Vince Martinez bribe story to a grand jury on Tuesday and press for Joe Doe indictments.

Prosecutor Donald G. Collester talked to the welterweight boxer today about a $20,000 bribe allegedly offered to Martinez to throw his Oct. 29 fight with Carmine Fiore.

The 25-year-old fighter said two men he did not know offered him the money two days before he stopped Fiore in the seventh round of a scheduled 10 at Madison Square Garden.

Collester said he and Martinez will go before the jury with the information and that he will ask for a thorough investigation aimed at returning Joe Doe indictments, returned when little or no information is available to the jury about the persons sought.

Jack McClelland, 82, Former Boxer, Dies

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19 (AP)—Jack McClelland, a former boxer who decisioned one-time featherweight champ Abe Attell shortly after the turn of the century, died at his home today at the age of 82.

McClelland fought Attell at the World Fair in St. Louis in 1904 when Attell was featherweight king.

Though he won the decision, McClelland did not get the title because both were over the 122-pound weight limit for featherweights at that time.

Forty Niners Play Steelers At Pittsburgh

Baltimore's Colts Host Bears Sunday

[By The Associated Press]

The San Francisco 49ers and Pittsburgh Steelers meet tonight at Pittsburgh in the opener of a full schedule of weekend National Football League games, and the contest is a "must" for the California crew.

San Francisco and Los Angeles, each with a 4-3-1 record, are tied for second place in the Western Conference, two games behind the champion Detroit Lions. Neither can afford another loss.

Sunday's big game is at the Polo Grounds where the New York Giants, leading the Eastern Division with six victories in eight games, take on the offensive-minded Los Angeles Rams. Here again it is either win, or wait until next year, for Los Angeles.

Detroit travels to Green Bay for a game with the Packers Sunday, and the Packers return Thanksgiving Day to play the Lions in Detroit. The champions will be favored to win both.

Cleveland entertains the Philadelphia Eagles, and the second place Browns must win to remain within striking distance of the Giants in the Eastern title chase. The Giants knocked the Eagles out of a tie for first place last Sunday, and the Cleveland clash should be a corker.

In other Sunday games the Chicago Bears are at Baltimore against the Colts, and Washington plays the Cardinals in Chicago.

The 49er-Steeler game will be televised (Dumont) starting at 8 p. m., EST.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(INS)—We note with delight that our old pal, Jack Kearns, is authoring a book to be called "Larceny Can Be Lovely."

And we can think of nobody who could know more about that alluring subject than our old pal Jack. This opus should be a masterpiece if Jack is going to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, particularly about larceny in the fight racket.

One thing worries us, however. Will Jack define larceny as the dictionary does or will he consider it merely as a sharp working of all the angles?

We wonder if Jack will tell us how he dug up all those tankers for Jack Dempsey before he inveigled the late Tex Rickard into giving Dempsey a chance to slaughter Jess Willard for the heavyweight title.

The amusing part of that tank tour for Dempsey was that Dempsey—on the level—could, and did flatten all the stiffs Kearns dug up.

Then Kearns might care to tell us who banged the bell ending the first round in Louisville when Paul Swiderski stiffened Kearns' middleweight champion, Mickey Walker.

Of course brother Kearns would not cut a round short to save his man's title. Perish the thought. Anyhow, who ever rang the bell surely saved Walker's title that night.

It may be that brother Kearns will want to give us the inside dope on how he managed to break the town of Shelby, Montana, the time he had Dempsey defending his title against Tommy Gibbons. Of course, Kearns had the law on his side. He was merely shylocking his pound of flesh when he demanded cash in advance.

Since we suspect that it was Kearns' shrewd brain that thought up the Guild, as a safe sure bet for the leading members thereof, we hope he will give us all the details of its operation.

If Jack reveals all these things, and a million other sidelights only he can supply, we guarantee his book will be both interesting and enlightening.

And in passing as a last thought we hope he'll tell us how he went through the $3,000,000 he made with Dempsey.

While their mother was engaged in a lengthy telephone conversation two Falmouth, Me., tots found a can of white paint and "redecorated" several pieces of furniture and the floor. We thought this Do-It-Yourself business was being overdone!

Pimlico Special Today Draws Six Three-Year-Olds

Arcaro Will Pilot Fisherman, $35,000 Purse Goes To Winner

Little Colt To Seek 6th Win; CBS Radio To Carry Race At 4:15

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP)—C.V. Whitney's Fisherman and William G. Helis Jr.'s Helioscope get their last chance tomorrow in the Pimlico Special to sway any votes to them in balloting for championship honors of the year.

A smashing victory by either over four other colts in the mile and three sixteenths race might persuade enough minds at the last minute to pick him the top 3-year-old.

None was able to dominate the popular division this season and the voting might well be split. The Thoroughbred Racing Assn., which takes a poll of racing secretaries and handicappers, realized this and postponed its voting from the usual Nov. 15 until next Monday so returns from the Special could be considered.

3-Year-Olds To Vie

Pimlico owners had that exactly in mind when they limited their invitations to the Special to 3-year-olds after it had been run the past 16 times as an open event.

The wide open character of the 3-year-old division was revealed when the three races of the Triple Crown were won by three different horses, Determine, Hasty Road and High Gun.

Kentucky Derby winner Determine hasn't raced since July, Hasty Road has gone down hill since winning the Preakness although he is one of the Special entries, and High Gun appeared to have forged to the fore until he was hurt Nov. 1.

High Gun skipped the first two Triple Crown races and then won the windup Belmont on June 12. It was his second victory of the year and he followed with two more in the Dwyer and Sysbony.

Arcaro To Ride

He was hurt while training for the Laurel International and Fisherman, rushed in to replace him, won the race. It was the fifth victory of the year for the little colt who will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro for the second time in the Special.

Helioscope is a latecomer like High Gun. He won three straight stakes in New Jersey in October. His string was stopped Nov. 6 by Maine Chance Farm's Jet Action in the Roamer Handicap at Jamaica. But Helioscope had to carry 129 pounds to 118 on Jet Action and tomorrow they'll be at even weight of 122 with all the others.

The others include R. W. McIlvain's Hasseyampa, third in both the Derby and Preakness, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McMacken's King Maple, Canada's best 3-year-old.

Winner To Get $35,000

The winner will get $35,000 and $15,000 will be divided the next two to finish. There will be no telecast of the race, but the CBS radio network will interrupt its college football roundup for about five minutes to carry a running account (4:15 p.m. EST).

Richards Plans To Use Woodling In Cleanup Spot

White Sox Reported Interested In Gene

CHICAGO, Nov. 19 (AP) — Paul Richards, manager-general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, and General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox talked player swaps today, but Richards said afterwards "if anything develops, it will be very light."

It would take a whale of a White Sox-Oriole deal to match Richards' transaction with the New York Yankees yesterday involving at least 12 players.

"We might have started something today that will develop later," said Richards after huddling with Lane, "but nothing has happened yet."

The White Sox were believed interested in outfielder Gene Woodling, one of the nine Yankees for three Orioles in yesterday's big deal.

However, Richards already has said that Woodling, at the moment, is the Oriole cleanup hitter.

Richards shrugged off criticism that the Yankees probably traded themselves into the American League pennant with pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen, and shortstop Billy Hunter from the Orioles.

"Let's wait and see how both sides come out," said Richards. "When you are dealing in human beings, you can't make flat predictions."

Martinez's Bribe Story To Be Aired Before Grand Jury

PATERSON, N.J., Nov. 19 (AP)—The Passaic County prosecutor said today he will refer the Vince Martinez bribe story to a grand jury on Tuesday and press for Joe Doe indictments.

Prosecutor Donald G. Collester talked to the welterweight boxer today about a $20,000 bribe allegedly offered to Martinez to throw his Oct. 29 fight with Carmine Fiore.

The 25-year-old fighter said two men he did not know offered him the money two days before he stopped Fiore in the seventh round of a scheduled 10 at Madison Square Garden.

Collester said he and Martinez will go before the jury with the information and that he will ask for a thorough investigation aimed at returning Joe Doe indictments, returned when little or no information is available to the jury about the persons sought.

Jack McClelland, 82, Former Boxer, Dies

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 19 (AP)—Jack McClelland, a former boxer who decisioned one-time featherweight champ Abe Attell shortly after the turn of the century, died at his home today at the age of 82.

McClelland fought Attell at the World Fair in St. Louis in 1904 when Attell was featherweight king.

Though he won the decision, McClelland did not get the title because both were over the 122-pound weight limit for featherweights at that time.

Forty Niners Play Steelers At Pittsburgh

Baltimore's Colts Host Bears Sunday

[By The Associated Press]

The San Francisco 49ers and Pittsburgh Steelers meet tonight at Pittsburgh in the opener of a full schedule of weekend National Football League games, and the contest is a "must" for the California crew.

San Francisco and Los Angeles, each with a 4-3-1 record, are tied for second place in the Western Conference, two games behind the champion Detroit Lions. Neither can afford another loss.

Sunday's big game is at the Polo Grounds where the New York Giants, leading the Eastern Division with six victories in eight games, take on the offensive-minded Los Angeles Rams. Here again it is either win, or wait until next year, for Los Angeles.

Detroit travels to Green Bay for a game with the Packers Sunday, and the Packers return Thanksgiving Day to play the Lions in Detroit. The champions will be favored to win both.

Cleveland entertains the Philadelphia Eagles, and the second place Browns must win to remain within striking distance of the Giants in the Eastern title chase. The Giants knocked the Eagles out of a tie for first place last Sunday, and the Cleveland clash should be a corker.

In other Sunday games the Chicago Bears are at Baltimore against the Colts, and Washington plays the Cardinals in Chicago.

The 49er-Steeler game will be televised (Dumont) starting at 8 p. m., EST.

Havana Track Is Purchased By Europeans

Oriental Park Sold For Three Million

HAVANA, Nov. 19 (AP)—Lowell M. Birrell of New York said today a group of investors including men from France, England and Switzerland have purchased Oriental Park, Havana's big race track, for about three million dollars.

"Oriental Park is one of the best and most beautiful tracks in the world," Birrell said, "and we have definite plans to restore it to some of its former presitge.

Birrell, who is president of the American Leduc Petroleum Co., said a number of immediate improvements will be made.

"We hope to begin racing in December, or certainly before the end of January," he added.

The purchases includes the land and all buildings including the Jockey Club and its casino.

Birrell said the new owners were considering running races five nights a week and Sunday afternoons.

Persley, Smith Clash Tonight

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 19 (AP)—Art Persley, fifth ranking lightweight boxing contender who has lost only one fight since 1951, will meet Wallace (Bud) Smith, 10th ranking contender, in a 10-round bout here tomorrow night.

Smith, of Cincinnati, floored Johnny Saxton twice here in 1953 to gain a draw. In 45 pro fights, he has lost 10 and got draws in three.

Persley, 31, New York, in 50 pro fights, but lost three and drew one.

The fight will be televised nationally (over CBS) beginning at 9 p.m. (EST).

Harvest Swing Highlights PSC Program Tonight

Fraternity Dance Opens Social Season

KEYSER—Theta Sigma Chi fraternity will conduct the first fraternity dance of the present school season at Potomac State College this evening in the college auditorium. Music will be furnished by the Aristocrats, for the "Harvest Swing," sponsored by the Thetas, with hours from 8 p. m. to 12 midnight.

The "Harvest Swing," one of the outstanding events each year at the college, will have, as its theme song: "How Deep Is the Ocean." The fraternity will be assisted by the sister sorority, Eta Upsilon Gamma, and this year a number of original ideas are being prepared as features of the Swing.

The "Aristocrats," Lonaconing musicians, who will furnish the music, include eight musicians and a vocalist.

Refreshments will be served during dancing hours under direction of William Orndorff and Joseph Lawless.

The following committees have been working on plans for several weeks:

Orchestra, Richard Ball, chairman; Robert Bishop, Fred Pfeifer and James Rinard; refreshments: Thomas Coltrane, chairman; Donald Butts, Marion Deal and James Sutton; advertising, Keith Collett, chairman, and Jack Coolidge.

Decorations for the auditorium were placed by members of both the fraternity and sorority, with a theme of "The Ocean."

The "Swing," will be semi-formal and corsages are banned.

Many Historical Items Presented Frostburg Lodge

Masons Observing 100th Anniversary

FROSTBURG — Since announcement was made that members of Mt. Lodge No. 99, AF and A Masons were planning to observe the lodge's 100th anniversary, many interesting historical items have been presented to the officers including the photograph shown here of the laying of the cornerstone at the Frostburg Post Office.

The cornerstone laying took place March 21, 1913 with the following officers of the lodge officiating: Frank C. Beall, worshipful master; James H. Fuller, deputy master; David J. Morgan Sr., senior warden; James D. Aldridge, junior warden; James Munsie, senior deacon; Alex G. Close, junior deacon; James Douglas Snyder and Israel Sapiro, stewards, and Charles E. Tucker, tiler.

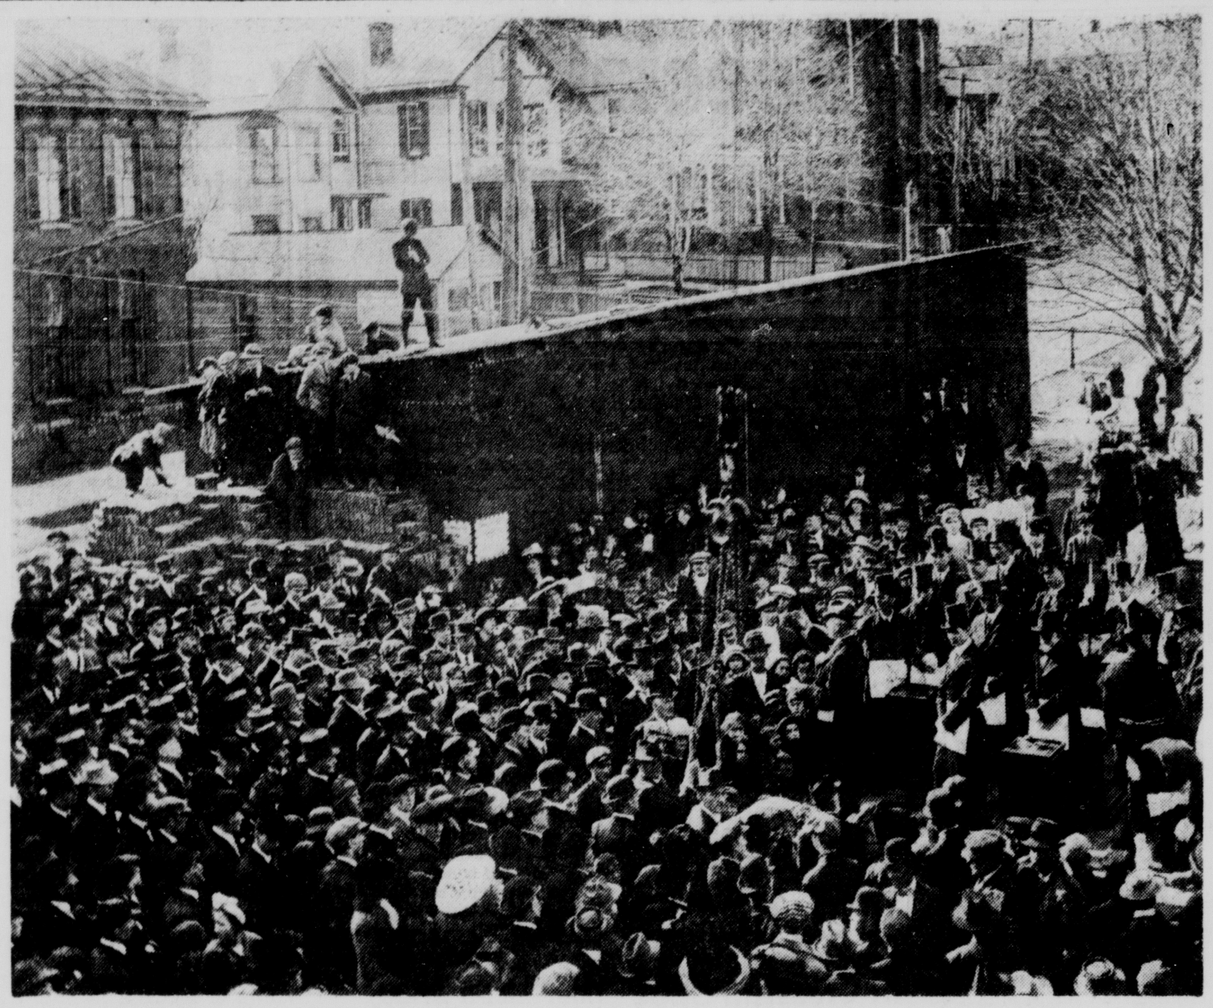

All the above officers are deceased excepting Close, Sapiro and Aldridge.

The laying of this cornerstone was one of many similar ceremonies conducted by Mt. Lodge during the 100 years of its existance. The principal ones being the first building of State Teachers College, in 1899, the cornerstone laying of the Bus Terminal on Water Street about 30 years ago and of the Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, Beall Street.

Shown on this photograph are many outstanding citizens who were leaders in Frostburg in the early part of the century. The address at the post office cornerstone laying was delivered by Col. George A. Pearre, congressman from the 6th congressional district of Maryland. The elderly gentleman standing on the platform to right of picture is the late J. B. Oder, a prominent Mason and for many years the editor and proprietor of the Frostburg Mining Journal.

Mt. Lodge was chartered November 22, 1854 and has continued without interruption for 100 years. A newspaper clipping received by the officers yesterday explained that after receiving its charter Mt. Lodge met for several years in the old Odd Fellows Hall on North Water Street, but when the bitterness caused by the Civil War broke the ties of friendship which had hitherto existed in this community, Mt. Lodge, along with other institutions, suffered and matters became so serious with the lodge that meetings in the Odd Fellows Hall were abandoned, and the loyal brothers, rather than surrender the charter granted in 1854, met at the homes of Major Huntley, J. M. Standish and other well known members who were determined that the Lodge should live and prosper.

About 1877 or 1878 when the wounds caused by the bitterness and hatreds of the war period began to heal, Mt. Lodge rented the third floor of the First National Bank Building on the corner of Union Street and Broadway and held their meetings there without interruption until September 27, 1923, when they moved to the three story building at 76 East Union Street, which they purchased January 27, 1923.

Piedmont Wants Army To Make Flood Survey

Engineers Asked For Recommendation

PIEDMONT — A letter was authorized at the regular meeting of Mayor L. Hill and City Council Thursday evening to Gongressman Harley O. Staggers requesting that United States Army Engineers make a survey for dredging Potomac River repairing the city's flood wall and sewers.

Russell Reutan, Clarksburg, of the Neptune Meter Company of New York conferred with city officials about a water testing meter and bench. An order was placed with him for the tester for $225, FOB, Long Island, N. Y.

Reutan gave a demonstration of consumer's water meter which sells for $23.20.

Council ordered that two truck tires and two recap tires for the police car be purchased from Piedmont Garage at the prices quoted.

A reply to the George F. Hazelweed Construction Company was read relative to an inquiry of the town requesting the company removing part of the cliff on the McCoole road near Westernport to deposit the spoil for flood protection in Piedmont.

The letter from A. H. Wilson, vice-president of the company stated that on his first visit here he will look over the situation with Mayor Hill.

Councilman Eugene W. Paxton stated Abe Feldstein who purchased the Cumberland and Pennsylvania bridge between Piedmont-Westernport would sell it to the town for a reasonable price.

The city rejected the offer as did the Town of Westernport at their last meeting.

An application lease to erect an advertising board on the city building by Schmidt Baking Company of Cumberland for $10 a year was rejected.

Plan Community Thanks Service

KEYSER — The Community Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Keyser Ministerium, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thanksgiving Day, in the Keyser Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Charles W. Paskel, of the First Methodist Church as the speaker.

Special emphasis of the service, expressing gratitude to God for His blessings, will be the "Share Our Surplus" program of the Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in America, through which millions of pounds of surplus government commodities will be sent abroad to be distributed free to the destitute and hungry in areas of need.

The surplus foods are provided free by the federal government, and the churches are providing the expenses of distribution through the Thanksgiving offering. One dollar contributed will mean $20 worth of food distributed.

Offering envelopes and additional information will be available at the local churches Sunday morning.

Keyser Kiwanians Sponsor Award For Citizenship

KEYSER — The Keyser Kiwanis Club will sponsor an annual award for Good Citizenship to a citizen of Keyser. The winner of the award is to be selected jointly by the president and a member of each local service club in Keyser —Rotary, Lions, Soroptimists and Kiwanis. Meetings have been held by the presidents of the four service clubs, and each of the organizations feel that the annual award will be an honor to a local person for his or her good citizenship qualifications.

Plans have been adopted tentatively by the four groups that will make the selections. The Kiwanis Club will make the presentation in line with Kiwanian ideals.

Other meetings of the four groups will be held until a selection has been made and the presentation will be held at the last meeting this calendar year of the Kiwanis Club.

Band Bake Sale

MT. SAVAGE—A bake sale by the Band Parents and Boosters Club of Mt. Savage High School will be held at Beals Meat Market Tuesday November 23 from 10 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of new uniforms for the band.

Two Men Held Guilty In Armed Robbery Case

OAKLAND — Associate Judge George Henderson found two Pennsylvania men guilty of armed robbery at a trial in Garrett County Circuit Court Monday. He withheld passing sentence.

Paul Olen Walker, 26, and Robert Thompson, 27, both of Boynton, Pa., were arrested October 23 and placed in the Garrett County jail, on a charge of having robbed Arthur Freeman Detrick of $12 October 10, just east of Grantsville.

They were picked up by Pennsylvania police upon request of Garrett County authorities.

The pair waived their right to indictment and requested an immediate trial. They entered pleas of not guilty. Stuart F. Hamill Jr., was appointed their attorney by order of the court.

It was brought out in the testimony that the two were traveling in an automobile on Route 40, east of Grantsville when they stopped to pick up Detrick. Detrick discovered a gun on the floor of the car as he got in. The pair carried Detrick beyond his destination at Little Crossings but did finally bring him back to that point where they let him out. The pair argued that Detrick was excited and that no armed robbery took place.

Detrick resides in Pennsylvania but is a former resident of the Grantsville area.

Walker is single and was the driver of the car. Thompson is married and the father of two children.

D Of A To Attend Mt. Savage Church

MT. SAVAGE—Pride of Mt. Savage No. 20, Daughters of America, will worship in a body in St. George's Church Sunday at the 10:45 a. m. services.

All members will meet in front of the church and the pastor, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind will deliver the sermon.

Plans are underway to hold the annual Christmas party at the regular meeting, December 10, officers said. Second nomination of officers will be held November 26.

Many Historical Items Presented Frostburg Lodge

Masons Observing 100th Anniversary

FROSTBURG — Since announcement was made that members of Mt. Lodge No. 99, AF and A Masons were planning to observe the lodge's 100th anniversary, many interesting historical items have been presented to the officers including the photograph shown here of the laying of the cornerstone at the Frostburg Post Office.

The cornerstone laying took place March 21, 1913 with the following officers of the lodge officiating: Frank C. Beall, worshipful master; James H. Fuller, deputy master; David J. Morgan Sr., senior warden; James D. Aldridge, junior warden; James Munsie, senior deacon; Alex G. Close, junior deacon; James Douglas Snyder and Israel Sapiro, stewards, and Charles E. Tucker, tiler.

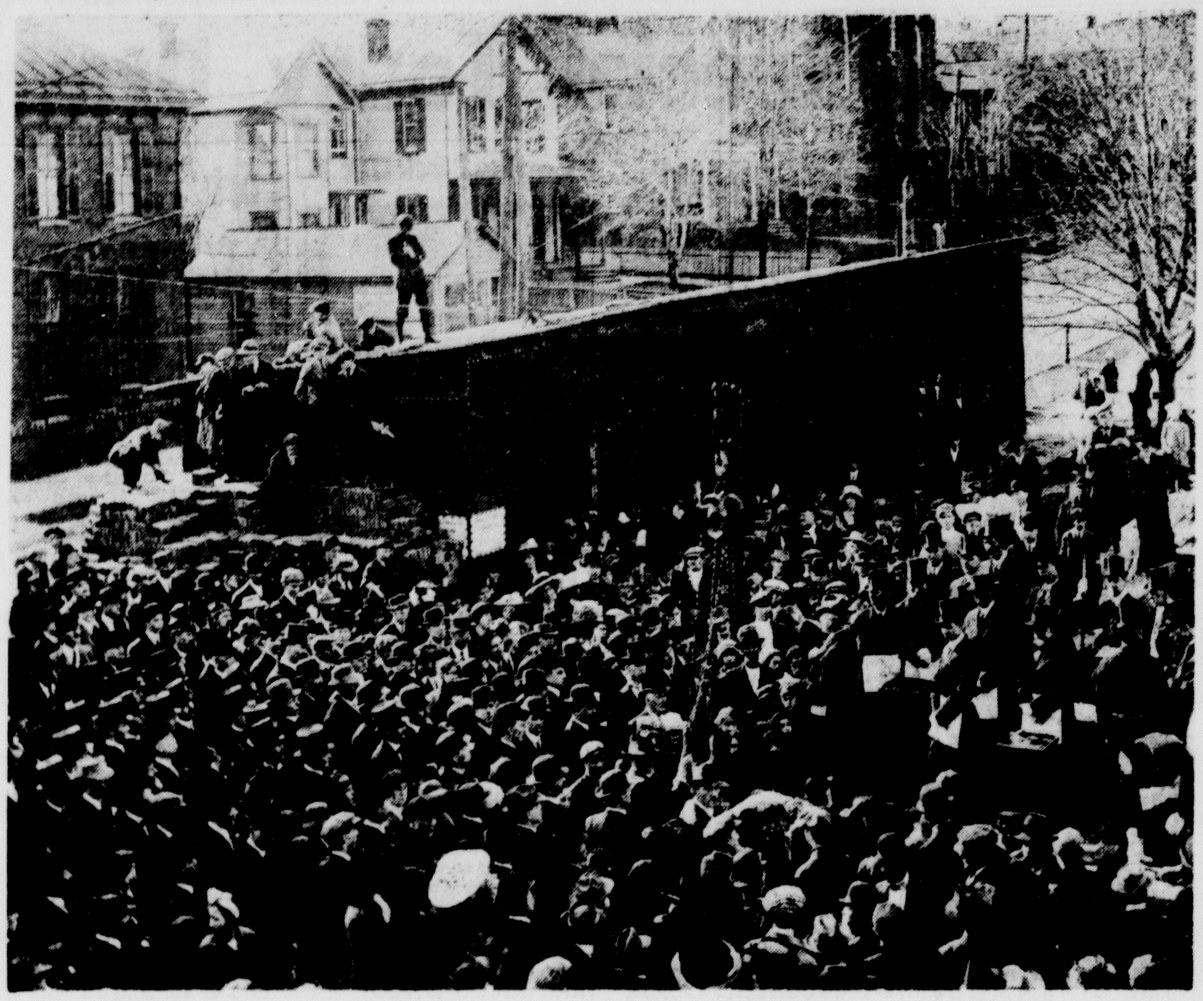

All the above officers are deceased excepting Close, Sapiro and Aldridge.

The laying of this cornerstone was one of many similar ceremonies conducted by Mt. Lodge during the 100 years of its existance. The principal ones being the first building of State Teachers College, in 1899, the cornerstone laying of the Bus Terminal on Water Street about 30 years ago and of the Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, Beall Street.

Shown on this photograph are many outstanding citizens who were leaders in Frostburg in the early part of the century. The address at the post office cornerstone laying was delivered by Col. George A. Pearre, congressman from the 6th congressional district of Maryland. The elderly gentleman standing on the platform to right of picture is the late J. B. Oder, a prominent Mason and for many years the editor and proprietor of the Frostburg Mining Journal.

Mt. Lodge was chartered November 22, 1854 and has continued without interruption for 100 years. A newspaper clipping received by the officers yesterday explained that after receiving its charter Mt. Lodge met for several years in the old Odd Fellows Hall on North Water Street, but when the bitterness caused by the Civil War broke the ties of friendship which had hitherto existed in this community, Mt. Lodge, along with other institutions, suffered and matters became so serious with the lodge that meetings in the Odd Fellows Hall were abandoned, and the loyal brothers, rather than surrender the charter granted in 1854, met at the homes of Major Huntley, J. M. Standish and other well known members who were determined that the Lodge should live and prosper.

About 1877 or 1878 when the wounds caused by the bitterness and hatreds of the war period began to heal, Mt. Lodge rented the third floor of the First National Bank Building on the corner of Union Street and Broadway and held their meetings there without interruption until September 27, 1923, when they moved to the three story building at 76 East Union Street, which they purchased January 27, 1923.

Piedmont Wants Army To Make Flood Survey

Engineers Asked For Recommendation

PIEDMONT — A letter was authorized at the regular meeting of Mayor L. Hill and City Council Thursday evening to Gongressman Harley O. Staggers requesting that United States Army Engineers make a survey for dredging Potomac River repairing the city's flood wall and sewers.

Russell Reutan, Clarksburg, of the Neptune Meter Company of New York conferred with city officials about a water testing meter and bench. An order was placed with him for the tester for $225, FOB, Long Island, N. Y.

Reutan gave a demonstration of consumer's water meter which sells for $23.20.

Council ordered that two truck tires and two recap tires for the police car be purchased from Piedmont Garage at the prices quoted.

A reply to the George F. Hazelweed Construction Company was read relative to an inquiry of the town requesting the company removing part of the cliff on the McCoole road near Westernport to deposit the spoil for flood protection in Piedmont.

The letter from A. H. Wilson, vice-president of the company stated that on his first visit here he will look over the situation with Mayor Hill.

Councilman Eugene W. Paxton stated Abe Feldstein who purchased the Cumberland and Pennsylvania bridge between Piedmont-Westernport would sell it to the town for a reasonable price.

The city rejected the offer as did the Town of Westernport at their last meeting.

An application lease to erect an advertising board on the city building by Schmidt Baking Company of Cumberland for $10 a year was rejected.

Plan Community Thanks Service

KEYSER — The Community Thanksgiving Service, sponsored by the Keyser Ministerium, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thanksgiving Day, in the Keyser Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Charles W. Paskel, of the First Methodist Church as the speaker.

Special emphasis of the service, expressing gratitude to God for His blessings, will be the "Share Our Surplus" program of the Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches in America, through which millions of pounds of surplus government commodities will be sent abroad to be distributed free to the destitute and hungry in areas of need.

The surplus foods are provided free by the federal government, and the churches are providing the expenses of distribution through the Thanksgiving offering. One dollar contributed will mean $20 worth of food distributed.

Offering envelopes and additional information will be available at the local churches Sunday morning.

Keyser Kiwanians Sponsor Award For Citizenship

KEYSER — The Keyser Kiwanis Club will sponsor an annual award for Good Citizenship to a citizen of Keyser. The winner of the award is to be selected jointly by the president and a member of each local service club in Keyser —Rotary, Lions, Soroptimists and Kiwanis. Meetings have been held by the presidents of the four service clubs, and each of the organizations feel that the annual award will be an honor to a local person for his or her good citizenship qualifications.

Plans have been adopted tentatively by the four groups that will make the selections. The Kiwanis Club will make the presentation in line with Kiwanian ideals.

Other meetings of the four groups will be held until a selection has been made and the presentation will be held at the last meeting this calendar year of the Kiwanis Club.

Band Bake Sale

MT. SAVAGE—A bake sale by the Band Parents and Boosters Club of Mt. Savage High School will be held at Beals Meat Market Tuesday November 23 from 10 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of new uniforms for the band.

Two Men Held Guilty In Armed Robbery Case

OAKLAND — Associate Judge George Henderson found two Pennsylvania men guilty of armed robbery at a trial in Garrett County Circuit Court Monday. He withheld passing sentence.

Paul Olen Walker, 26, and Robert Thompson, 27, both of Boynton, Pa., were arrested October 23 and placed in the Garrett County jail, on a charge of having robbed Arthur Freeman Detrick of $12 October 10, just east of Grantsville.

They were picked up by Pennsylvania police upon request of Garrett County authorities.

The pair waived their right to indictment and requested an immediate trial. They entered pleas of not guilty. Stuart F. Hamill Jr., was appointed their attorney by order of the court.

It was brought out in the testimony that the two were traveling in an automobile on Route 40, east of Grantsville when they stopped to pick up Detrick. Detrick discovered a gun on the floor of the car as he got in. The pair carried Detrick beyond his destination at Little Crossings but did finally bring him back to that point where they let him out. The pair argued that Detrick was excited and that no armed robbery took place.

Detrick resides in Pennsylvania but is a former resident of the Grantsville area.

Walker is single and was the driver of the car. Thompson is married and the father of two children.

D Of A To Attend Mt. Savage Church

MT. SAVAGE—Pride of Mt. Savage No. 20, Daughters of America, will worship in a body in St. George's Church Sunday at the 10:45 a. m. services.

All members will meet in front of the church and the pastor, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind will deliver the sermon.

Plans are underway to hold the annual Christmas party at the regular meeting December 10, officers said. Second nomination of officers will be held November 26.

THE QUESTION BOX!

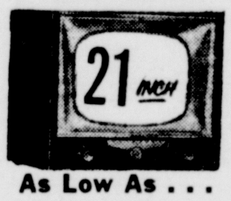

Q. WHAT DOES A LEADING AUTHORITY SAY ABOUT THE IMPORTANCE OF TELEVI ION?

A. Senator Johnston, of Colorado, said that "television is Humanity's greatest single blessing." So you certainly need television.

Don't let anyone "talk you into taking the wrong road," and if you are on the wrong road, it is better to get on the right road, as soon as possible; and we mean using direct antenna.

Market Resumes Forward Move After Hesitation

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP) — The stock market resumed its forward movement today after a session of hesitancy.

The advance carried the market on average to within a short distance of the 25-year high established earlier in the week.

Prices were up between 1 and 2 points in many instances with a few stocks pushing well ahead of that. Losses were mostly fractional.

Railroads had the biggest hand in starting the rise and in keeping it going. Excellent progress was made by a few steels and motors, and there was a considerable list of individual gainers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents at $144.30. It was off 90 cents yesterday. It now stands only 20 cents under the 25-year high established Wednesday.

The railroad component of the average was responsible for most of the strength. It was up $1.70 at a new high of $109.90. Utilities were up 30 cents at a new high of $65.70. Industrials added 20 cents at $197.20.

Volume came to 3,130,000 shares, far above the average for the year but well below yesterday's 3,530,000 shares.

Raytheon was the day's most active issue up 1¼ at 17⅛ on 67,500 shares. It was followed by Colorado Fuel & Iron up 1¼ at 22¾, Chrysler up 2⅜ at 62½, Benguet Consolidated Mining up ⅛ at 1, and Pacific Tin up ½ at 8⅞.

Stocks gaining ground included Youngstown Steel up 1¼, Montgomery Ward ⅝, Boeing ¼, Zenith 1, American Telephone ⅜, Du Pont 1¾, American Woolen 1⅛, Monsanto Chemical 2½, Santa Fe 1¼, Atlantic Coast Line 7½, and Howe Sound ¼.

Lower were United Aircraft off ½, Kennecott Copper ⅝, Union Carbide ⅜, Texas Co. ⅜, Eastern Air Lines ½, and Loew's ¼.

Market Resumes Forward Move After Hesitation

NEW YORK, Nov. 19 (AP) — The stock market resumed its forward movement today after a session of hesitancy.

The advance carried the market on average to within a short distance of the 25-year high established earlier in the week.

Prices were up between 1 and 2 points in many instances with a few stocks pushing well ahead of that. Losses were mostly fractional.

Railroads had the biggest hand in starting the rise and in keeping it going. Excellent progress was made by a few steels and motors, and there was a considerable list of individual gainers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 70 cents at $144.30. It was off 90 cents yesterday. It now stands only 20 cents under the 25-year high established Wednesday.

The railroad component of the average was responsible for most of the strength. It was up $1.70 at a new high of $109.90. Utilities were up 30 cents at a new high of $65.70. Industrials added 20 cents at $197.20.

Volume came to 3,130,000 shares, far above the average for the year but well below yesterday's 3,530,000 shares.

Raytheon was the day's most active issue up 1¼ at 17⅛ on 67,500 shares. It was followed by Colorado Fuel & Iron up 1¼ at 22¾, Chrysler up 2⅜ at 62½, Benguet Consolidated Mining up ⅛ at 1, and Pacific Tin up ½ at 87⅛.

Stocks gaining ground included Youngstown Steel up 1¼, Montgomery Ward ⅝, Boeing ¼, Zenith 1, American Telephone ⅜, Du Pont 1⅜, American Woolen 1⅛, Monsanto Chemical 2½, Santa Fe 1¼, Atlantic Coast Line 7½, and Howe Sound ¼.

Lower were United Aircraft off ½, Kennecott Copper ⅝, Union Carbide ⅜, Texas Co. ⅜, Eastern Air Lines ½, and Loew's ¼.

Telephone Crews End First Cycle Of Dial Project

12,000 Service Orders To Be Distributed

Workers in the Cumberland central office yesterday completed on schedule the first cycle in the $2,000,000 project to convert the Cumberland telephone system to dial operation.

C. Walter Haschert Jr., manager, said the work included the typing of 13,000 service orders which are needed in the dial conversion program.

Each order consists of eight carbon copies of the record of each customer served by the Cumberland central office.

Haschert said the next step will be to separate the copies and distribute each to the various departments which will be involved in the conversion program.

Will Route Copies

One copy of each order will be sent to the staff which will prepare the new dial directory.

Another goes to the plant foreman who must provide for running telephone wires to each of the 13,000 customers.

A third copy will be supplied to the installation foreman who will arrange, beginning in January, to install dials on each of the 16,000 telephone instruments in the city.

The fourth copy will go to the accounting departments, where addressograph plates will be signed for billing customers by new dial numbers.

Other copies, Haschert said, will go to the various departments which will handle other phases of the dial conversion plan.

Meanwhile, the installation of the intricate equipment which will operate the dial system is progressing at the central office.

Installation Progresses

Fred R. MacAulay, project supervisor for the Western Electric Company, which is installing the equipment, reports the job is moving along on schedule.

At present, MacAulay has a crew of 33 men working on the installation, and the crew will be augmented to about 80 as the job progresses.

Haschert said the installation of dials on existing phones will get under way in January. The dialing mechanism will not affect the operation of the instruments in any way.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City last April authorized the expenditure of $1,729,000 for central office dial equipment and phone conversion.

An additional expenditure of $207,000 was authorized in September to rebuild and expand outside wire and cable facilities for the dial center.

Officials expect the dial conversion project to be completed next August or September.

School Leaders End Conference On Child Study

Five Days Devoted To County Program

Another of the semi-annual Child Study Conferences for supervisors, principals and teachers in Allegany County public schools came to a close yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Gerthon Morgan of the Child Study Institute of the University of Maryland was the consultant for the five-day conference. Highlight of his activities during the week was a lecture to all of the 60 child study participants Monday evening at West Side School.

"The Teacher's Role in the Development of the Potential Personality of the Child" was Dr. Morgan's topic.

Various other sessions during the week were for specialized groups. For instance, Monday morning the entire supervisory staff had a discussion period in the Board of Education Building. That afternoon the first-year high school group met at Beall High School in Frostburg with Wayne Hill, principal, as leader.

The Child Study program is a three-year course for teachers. There are separate groups for elementary and high school teachers for each of the three years.

Among other discussion leaders during the week were Miss Byra M. Nefflen, principal of Cresaptown Junior High School; Miss Veronica Sleeman, a teacher at Hill Street School in Frostburg; Jack Petry, principal of Valley High School near Lonaconing, and Miss Glennie Shelton, teacher at Penn Avenue School.

The conference closed with a final meeting of the entire supervisory staff in the Board of Education Building from 1:30 until 2:30 p. m. yesterday.

Crews Haul Debris From Lake Shores

Work On Filter Plant Progresses

Crews of the Evitts Creek Water Company this summer removed some 89 truckloads of debris from the edges of Lake Koon and Lake Gordon in order to protect the quality of the Cumberland water supply.

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported, following an inspection of the city's watershed in the Lake Gordon area, that the work was done by temporary workers who are hired each summer to keep the property in good condition.

He said the debris included brush, old bottles, rubbish and leaves which collected on the shores of the big lakes and on roads adjoining the reservoirs.

Roads Are Improved

Mayor Eves reported the property is in good condition and that progress is being made in the continuous reforestation program which began several years ago.

He said the State of Pennsylvania has installed modern guard rail facilities on roads which run through the city's watershed.

Progress is also being made, he said, on the rehabilitation of the original 12 filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

He said the George F. Hazelwood Company, which has the contract for the work, has part of the walls built around the filters and that work on the roof can proceed when steel arrives.

The heating system for the new building is also being installed.

Will Replace Pipes

The construction firm has been cleaning the filter units and making any necessary repairs to the concrete structures.

Next week, the firm expects to begin replacing lateral pipes which are being renovated by Evitts Creek Water Company crews.

Fifty-two of these wrought iron pipes are located at the bottom of each filter unit. They collect filtered water which has trickled down through the filtering material. They also carry the water which is flushed upwards, under pressure, to clean the filter beds.

Injunction Stops Golf Links Sale In Hagerstown

Judge Henderson Blocks Officials

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 19 (AP) — Circuit Judge George Henderson granted an injunction today blocking sale of Hagerstown's 9-hole municipal golf course by the mayor and City Council.

He ruled that the city charter prevents the mayor and council from selling city-owned land unless it declares that the land is no longer needed for municipal purposes.

The council passed a resolution doing that earlier this week. But Judge Henderson upheld a contention of ex-Mayor Richard H. Sweeney, who sought the injunction in a taxpayers suit, that the course is being used for municipal purposes because people are playing golf on it.

The city had planned to offer the course for sale next Tuesday at auction and use the proceeds to build a new 18-hole course elsewhere. Sweeney, under whose administration the land was purchased in 1946, wanted the city to hold onto it.

The former mayor said it could be used as a site for a proposed war memorial auditorium, a park area and a playground.

Council has said it cannot build a new, larger golf course unless it first sells the present one.

Highway Travel Back To Normal As Fog Lifts

Pea-Soup Weather Ends In Mountain

Heavy fog which hampered highway traffic in the mountains lifted early last night after some 30 hours of intermittent rainfall.

Clouds were hugging the ground in most of the area yesterday morning, and highway traffic was slowed to about 20 miles an hour west of here in areas where the fog collected.

Maryland State Police reported early last night, however, that the fog had let up and that traffic was moving on schedule.

R. R. Golden, official weather observer, reported yesterday's rainfall was .82 inches and that 1.54 inches of rain fell in the 30-hour period.

Still more rain will be needed during November, he added, since the month's total is only 1.83 inches.

The rain varied from a slight to a heavy drizzle and generally soaked into the ground.

Golden said the Potomac River rose only one-fifth of a foot in 24 hours at Wiley Ford.

The additional rain was enough, however, to send water splashing over the spillway of both of the city's reservoirs in nearby Pennsylvania.

Traffic in Cumberland was heavy as usual yesterday in spite of the miserable weather.

Cloud weather and mild showers are predicted for this area today.

County 4th In Savings Bond Sales

Allegany County ranks fourth among Maryland's counties in proportional sales of U. S. Government Series E and H Savings Bonds for the first 10 months of the year, Lynn C. Lashley, county chairman, said yesterday.

Lashley said the county so far this year has met 71.9 per cent of its sales quota of $3,175,700. October sales of $200,917 worth of bonds in the two categories brought the Allegany County total to $2,116,067 for the year to date.

But at the same time Lashley called on Savings Bond volunteer workers in the county to redouble their efforts to stimulate public interest in bonds as Christmas gifts, as seasonal bonus payments to employes, and as sound personal investments.

Lashley pointed out that sales in Maryland as a whole were below par last month, and that the state will fall short of its $74,200,000 quota unless buying shows a marked increase between now and the end of the year.

Maryland banks, farm groups, women's clubs and other organizations are making special efforts to put Maryland over the top in the last two months of the year.

Washington County is first among the state's 23 counties, with 97.6 per cent of its $2,940,000 already sold. Harford is second, Baltimore County third, and Garrett ninth, with 63.4 per cent. The state average at the end of October was 65.7 per cent.

Officials said the hearing will be for the purpose of setting bond, since they will pray a jury trial on the charge.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said Kaul was married to a local girl in August but admitted a previous marriage to a girl in Virginia in 1951.

He was returned here recently from Loch Haven, Pa., for questioning in connection with a larceny report from a local boarding house where he formerly resided.

Social Security Official Here Gets Navy Position

Announcement was made yesterday that Donald Scott Hudson of Cresaptown, a field representative for the Social Security Administration in this area, has accepted an important position in Washington.

Hudson, who came here from Salisbury (Md.) four and a half years ago, has been with Social Security for over seven and a half years. Yesterday was his last day at the local office before he leaves to become an executive officer to the Secretary of the Navy.

Specifically, he has been named an organization and methods examiner for the Management Division of the Navy in the office of the Secretary of the Navy.

Whitworth Bill On Utility Tax Rejected Again

Kimble Votes For Revenue Shuffle

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP) — The Legislative Council rejected today another multi-million-dollar move to make utilities property taxable where it is located, rather than where the utilities have their principal offices.

The Legislature defeated a similar attempt at its last session, and proponents declared after today's rebuff they will try again in the 1955 session.

Preceded by an unusual amount of oratory, the vote was 9-7 in the council, which is the State's legislative research and screening agency when the Legislature is not in session.

When it was proposed last February by Del. Horace Whitworth (R-Allegany), the bill was found to contain provisions which would have cost Baltimore City an estimated $1,163,616 in annual revenues, Frederick County $50,622 and Wicomico County $32,689.

Turnbull Among "Noes"

State Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County), whose county figured to gain $443,904 if the proposal became law, was among the nine who voted against it at the council session.

Others were Sens. Della (D-Balto 6th), Ramsburg (R-Frederick), Redden (D-Caroline), and Dels. Luber (D-Balto 5th), Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd), Derr (R-Frederick, Nock (D-Wicomico), and Robinson (D-Balto 4th).

Voting for were Sens. Kimble (R-Allegany), Goldstein (D-Calvert), Jewell (D-Kent) and McLaughlin (R-Washington), and Dels. Marshall (R-Prince Georges), Lowe (D-Talbot) and Lucas (D-Dorchester).

Before adjourning until Dec. 10, when it will hold its clean-up session before the Legislature meets in January, the council also adopted proposals which would:

1. Encourage motorists to take out liability insurance. (The council approved a $3 cost — besides the normal fines and court costs — for drivers convicted of moving violations. The $3 would be applied toward financing a program of suspending the license of any driver convicted of a moving violation and failing to show within 90 days that he is able to pay property damages resulting from such violations. Gov. McKeldin vetoed a similar bill passed in the 1954 session of the Legislature, explaining there was no money to finance the Department of Motor Vehicles carrying out the license-suspension procedure.)

Supervisor Office

2. Establish an office of personnel supervisor, who would set up a salary scale of state employes, subject to approval by the governor and the State Salary Board.

3. Establish a separate authority to handle all new toll facilities — bridges and roads — in the state.

4. Set up a Research Division Study of the State Aviation Commission. (This would be financed by a three-cents-a-gallon tax on aviation gasoline, with the state matching funds raised by the tax.)

In the full-dress debate on the utilities tax, Dempsey asked that the proposal be referred to committee.

Del. J. Paul Marshall, who like Whitworth failed in his bid for another term in the House, called this "a parliamentary device designed to kill" the proposal.

Turnbull, asking for an immediate council vote, said he felt the entire State would suffer in the long run if the measure were approved and Baltimore City would lose such a vast amount of tax money.

Baltimore Would Lose

"The city would then have to look around for other sources of revenue," said Turnbull. "It probably would levy other taxes on industry, and the industry might then move out of the State, depriving all of the subdivisions of revenue sources.

"Let's not look at this from a provincial, localized viewpoint," he suggested.

Kimble and McLaughlin said, in explaining their votes, that the utilities tax was an inequity. Kim-

Allegany Among Seven Fatality-Free Maryland Counties During October

Allegany County was among seven of Maryland's 23 counties which were without traffic fatalities during October, according to a traffic statistics report by the State Police.

Also fatality-free were Calvert, Caroline, Dorchester, Kent, St. Mary's and Somerset counties.

But elsewhere in the state, 70 died in traffic accidents. Thirty-five were killed in the 7 counties, and 15 in Baltimore City, for that city's highest monthly toll in two years.

Nine died in Anne Arundel County, five in Prince Georges, three in Baltimore County, three in Charles and Washington counties. Two died in Harford, one each in Carroll, Cecil, Frederick, Howard, Garrett, Montgomery, Queen Anne, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester counties.

The monthly summary of motor vehicle traffic accidents in the state recorded a total of 3,243 traffic accidents investigated by police during the month of October. Some 281 of the accidents involved collisions of motor vehicles with pedestrians, 15 killed; 2,347 involved collisions of motor vehicles with other motor vehicles, 17 killed; 37 were motor vehicles with bicycles, 1 killed; 397 involved collisions of motor vehicles with fixed objects, 14 killed, and 73 of the collisions occurred when a motor vehicle ran off the roadway killing two persons.

The 50 deaths in October brought the number of traffic fatalities in the state up to 417 during the year 1954, a three per cent reduction from 1953.

Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, in releasing the traffic statistics for October, issued this note of caution to pedestrians:

"Never depend upon the driver's ability to see you at night. Wear something white, carry something white, or carry a light. On rural roads, walk facing traffic. Cross streets only at controlled intersections when possible. Take advantage of all protection devices such as walk-signals, pedestrian lanes and footpaths which have been provided to help you. Remember that absent-mindedness is an important cause of pedestrian deaths and keep your mind on safe walking."

Crews Haul Debris From Lake Shores

Work On Filter Plant Progresses

Crews of the Evitts Creek Water Company this summer removed some 89 truckloads of debris from the edges of Lake Koon and Lake Gordon in order to protect the quality of the Cumberland water supply.

Mayor Roy W. Eves reported, following an inspection of the city's watershed in the Lake Gordon area, that the work was done by temporary workers who are hired each summer to keep the property in good condition.

He said the debris included brush, old bottles, rubbish and leaves which collected on the shores of the big lakes and on roads adjoining the reservoirs.

Roads Are Improved

Mayor Eves reported the property is in good condition and that progress is being made in the continuous reforestation program which began several years ago.

He said the State of Pennsylvania has installed modern guard rail facilities on roads which run through the city's watershed.

Progress is also being made, he said, on the rehabilitation of the original 12 filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant.

He said the George F. Hazelwood Company, which has the contract for the work, has part of the walls built around the filters and that work on the roof can proceed when steel arrives.

The heating system for the new building is also being installed.

Will Replace Pipes

The construction firm has been cleaning the filter units and making any necessary repairs to the concrete structures.

Next week, the firm expects to begin replacing lateral pipes which are being renovated by Evitts Creek Water Company crews.

Fifty-two of these wrought iron pipes are located at the bottom of each filter unit. They collect filtered water which has trickled down through the filtering material. They also carry the water which is flushed upwards, under pressure, to clean the filter beds.

Injunction Stops Golf Links Sale In Hagerstown

Judge Henderson Blocks Officials

HAGERSTOWN, Nov. 19 (AP) — Circuit Judge George Henderson granted an injunction today blocking sale of Hagerstown's 9-hole municipal golf course by the mayor and City Council.

He ruled that the city charter prevents the mayor and council from selling city-owned land unless it declares that the land is no longer needed for municipal purposes.

The council passed a resolution doing that earlier this week. But Judge Henderson upheld a contention of ex-Mayor Richard H. Sweeney, who sought the injunction in a taxpayers suit, that the course is being used for municipal purposes because people are playing golf on it.

The city had planned to offer the course for sale next Tuesday at auction and use the proceeds to build a new 18-hole course elsewhere. Sweeney, under whose administration the land was purchased in 1946, wanted the city to hold onto it.

The former mayor said it could be used as a site for a proposed war memorial auditorium, a park area and a playground.

Council has said it cannot build a new, larger golf course unless it first sells the present one.

Highway Travel Back To Normal As Fog Lifts

Pea-Soup Weather Ends In Mountain

Heavy fog which hampered highway traffic in the mountains lifted early last night after some 30 hours of intermittent rainfall.

Clouds were hugging the ground in most of the area yesterday morning, and highway traffic was slowed to about 20 miles an hour west of here in areas where the fog collected.

Maryland State Police reported early last night, however, that the fog had let up and that traffic was moving on schedule.

R. R. Golden, official weather observer, reported yesterday's rainfall was .82 inches and that 1.54 inches of rain fell in the 30-hour period.

Still more rain will be needed during November, he added, since the month's total is only 1.83 inches.

The rain varied from a slight to a heavy drizzle and generally soaked into the ground.

Golden said the Potomac River rose only one-fifth of a foot in 24 hours at Wiley Ford.

The additional rain was enough, however, to send water splashing over the spillway of both of the city's reservoirs in nearby Pennsylvania.

Traffic in Cumberland was heavy as usual yesterday in spite of the miserable weather.

Cloud weather and mild showers are predicted for this area today.

County 4th In Savings Bond Sales

Allegany County ranks fourth among Maryland's counties in proportional sales of U. S. Government Series E and H Savings Bonds for the first 10 months of the year, Lynn C. Lashley, county chairman, said yesterday.

Lashley said the county so far this year has met 71.9 per cent of its sales quota of $3,175,700. October sales of $200,917 worth of bonds in the two categories brought the Allegany County total to $2,116,067 for the year to date.

But at the same time Lashley called on Savings Bond volunteer workers in the county to redouble their efforts to stimulate public interest in bonds as Christmas gifts, as seasonal bonus payments to employes, and as sound personal investments.

Lashley pointed out that sales in Maryland as a whole were below par last month, and that the state will fall short of its $74,200,000 quota unless buying shows a marked increase between now and the end of the year.

Maryland banks, farm groups, women's clubs and other organizations are making special efforts to put Maryland over the top in the last two months of the year.

Washington County is first among the state's 23 counties, with 97.6 per cent of its $2,940,000 already sold. Harford is second, Baltimore County third, and Garrett ninth, with 63.4 per cent. The state average at the end of October was 65.7 per cent.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said Kaul was married to a local girl in August but admitted a previous marriage to a girl in Virginia in 1951.

He was returned here recently from Loch Haven, Pa., for questioning in connection with a larceny report from a local boarding house where he formerly resided.

Social Security Official Here Gets Navy Position

Announcement was made yesterday that Donald Scott Hudson of Cresaptown, a field representative for the Social Security Administration in this area, has accepted an important position in Washington.

Hudson, who came here from Salisbury (Md.) four and a half years ago, has been with Social Security for over seven and a half years. Yesterday was his last day at the local office before he leaves to become an executive officer to the Secretary of the Navy.

A native of Haddon Heights, N. J., he graduated from high school there and also from Franklin and Marshall College. He also took courses at the University of Pennsylvania and American University. Prior to World War II he worked some time with the Army Ordnance Department.

During World War II he was a pharmacist mate in the Navy attached to the Fourth Marine Division in the South Pacific. For two years after the war he worked with the Socony-Vacuum Oil Company. Later he worked for the Social Security Administration in Salisbury. He came here from Salisbury.

His work out of the local office has taken him into Mineral, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Pendleton, Garrett and Allegany counties.

Whitworth Bill On Utility Tax Rejected Again

Kimble Votes For Revenue Shuffle

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19 (AP) — The Legislative Council rejected today another multi-million-dollar move to make utilities property taxable where it is located, rather than where the utilities have their principal offices.

The Legislature defeated a similar attempt at its last session, and proponents declared after today's rebuff they will try again in the 1955 session.

Preceded by an unusual amount of oratory, the vote was 9-7 in the council, which is the State's legislative research and screening agency when the Legislature is not in session.

When it was proposed last February by Del. Horace Whitworth (R-Allegany), the bill was found to contain provisions which would have cost Baltimore City an estimated $1,163,616 in annual revenues, Frederick County $50,622 and Wicomico County $32,689.

Turnbull Among "Noes"

State Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County), whose county figured to gain $443,904 if the proposal became law, was among the nine who voted against it at the council session.

Others were Sens. Della (D-Balto 6th), Ramsburg (R-Frederick), Redden (D-Caroline), and Dels. Luber (D-Balto 5th), Dempsey (D-Balto 3rd), Derr (R-Frederick, Nock (D-Wicomico), and Robinson (D-Balto 4th).

Voting for were Sens. Kimble (R-Allegany), Goldstein (D-Calvert), Jewell (D-Kent) and McLaughlin (R-Washington), and Dels. Marshall (R-Prince Georges), Lowe (D-Talbot) and Lucas (D-Dorchester).

Before adjourning until Dec. 10, when it will hold its clean-up session before the Legislature meets in January, the council also adopted proposals which would:

1. Encourage motorists to take out liability insurance. (The council approved a $3 cost — besides the normal fines and court costs—for drivers convicted of moving violations. The $3 would be applied toward financing a program of suspending the license of any driver convicted of a moving violation and failing to show within 90 days that he is able to pay property damages resulting from such violations. Gov. McKeldin vetoed a similar bill passed in the 1954 session of the Legislature, explaining there was no money to finance the Department of Motor Vehicles carrying out the license-suspension procedure.)

Supervisor Office

2. Establish an office of personnel supervisor, who would set up a salary scale of state employes, subject to approval by the governor and the State Salary Board.

3. Establish a separate authority to handle all new toll facilities—bridges and roads—in the state.

4. Set up a Research Division Study of the State Aviation Commission. (This would be financed by a three-cents-a-gallon tax on aviation gasoline, with the state matching funds raised by the tax.)

In the full-dress debate on the utilities tax, Dempsey asked that the proposal be referred to committee.

Del. J. Paul Marshall, who like Whitworth failed in his bid for another term in the House, called this "a parliamentary device designed to kill" the proposal.

Turnbull, asking for an immediate council vote, said he felt the entire State would suffer in the long run if the measure were approved and Baltimore City would lose such a vast amount of tax money.

Baltimore Would Lose

"The city would then have to look around for other sources of revenue," said Turnbull. "It probably would levy other taxes on industry, and the industry might then move out of the State, depriving all of the subdivisions of revenue sources.

"Let's not look at this from a provincial, localized viewpoint," he suggested.

Kimble and McLaughlin said, in explaining their votes, that the utilities tax was an inequity. Kim-

Allegany Among Seven Fatality-Free Maryland Counties During October

Allegany County was among seven of Maryland's 23 counties which were without traffic fatalities during October, according to a traffic statistics report by the State Police.

Also fatality-free were Calvert, Caroline, Dorchester, Kent, St. Mary's and Somerset counties.

But elsewhere in the state, 70 died in traffic accidents. Thirty-five were killed in the counties, and 15 in Baltimore City, for that city's highest monthly toll in two years.

Nine died in Anne Arundel County, five in Prince Georges, three in Baltimore County, three in Charles and Washington counties. Two died in Harford, one each in Carroll, Cecil, Frederick, Howard, Garrett, Montgomery, Queen Anne, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester counties.

The monthly summary of motor vehicle traffic accidents in the state recorded a total of 3,243 traffic accidents investigated by police during the month of October. Some 281 of the accidents involved collisions of motor vehicles with pedestrians, 15 killed; 2,347 involved collisions of motor vehicles with other motor vehicles, 17 killed; 37 were motor vehicles with bicycles, 1 killed; 397 involved collisions of motor vehicles with fixed objects, 14 killed, and 73 of the collisions occurred when a motor vehicle ran off the roadway killing two persons.

The 50 deaths in October brought the number of traffic fatalities in the state up to 417 during the year 1954, a three per cent reduction from 1953.

Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, in releasing the traffic statistics for October, issued this note of caution to pedestrians:

"Never depend upon the driver's ability to see you at night. Wear something white, carry something white, or carry a light. On rural roads, walk facing traffic. Cross streets only at controlled intersections when possible. Take advantage of all protection devices such as walk-signals, pedestrian lanes and footpaths which have been provided to help you. Remember that absent-mindedness is an important cause of pedestrian deaths and keep your mind on safe walking."

Could This Be Be Mr. Blooper?

An unidentified pedestrian courts a couple of broken legs as he hurries between two cars stopped in rush-hour traffic on Baltimore Street. Stunts like this will be staged today in the downtown section by "Mr. Blooper," designated by the Junior Association of Commerce to publicize Safety Week by pulling pedestrian boners in traffic this week. The person who spots him and asks if he is Mr. Blopoer will receive a $25 prize from the Jaycees. So far, nobody's caught him.
